TO ADVERTISERS.

MR. MERCHANT, the public has been harangued too long. Its ears are jangling, its eyes are weary with following wild gestures of inexperienced, amateur adv. writers. Its intelligence has been insulted too often, its credulity stretched too far. Readers turn with relief to my low-voiced, moderate, non-exaggerated advertisements, booklets, circulars, business letters, etc., because they appeal to reason. The public weighs words carefully, and the balance swings toward the more solid ones. Let me show you the "difference" in advertising. Terms reasonable. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

MEXICANS HAVE NOT SALUTED THE FLAG

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, April 14.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, received a long cablegram from Washington early today that is believed to contain the final and peremptory demand from the United States government for a salute to the flag by Mexican troops at Tampico as complete reparation for the arrest of United States marines there.

Charge O'Shaughnessy refused to reveal the contents of the message, but it is reported that it extended the time limit three days in which President Huerta may reach a decision as to what action he will take. This three day period will end at 6 p. m. Thursday.

Minister of War Blanquet refused to comment today on the Vera Cruz dispatches that quote General Gustavo Maas as stating that the American flag would not be saluted by the Tampico soldiers, but attaches of the war department intimated that General Maas would have the full backing of his supporters "if even President Huerta ruled otherwise." This last statement indicated that friction had arisen between General Blanquet and the president. It was regarded as significant in this connection that General Blanquet was the first to leave the cabinet meeting held at the national palace on Monday morning.

The minister of war was apparently in a towering rage, failing to notice the saluting guards on duty at the palace.

It was afterward rumored that President Huerta had told his ministers that he would order the Tampico commander, Genral Zaragoza, to comply with Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute, but that General Blanquet had refused to sanction such a course and had warned Huerta that if he yielded a new head would have to be found for the department of war.

The Ninety-nine Team Won.

The Ninety-nine team defeated the Spring street team Saturday by the score of 6 to 4, ten innings. The batteries were Gilson, Goodgoin, Hicks and Jenks for the Ninety-nines and Manning, Tierney, Mankin and Flicker for Spring street.

Improvements at Allaben.

Proprietor Gulnick of the Allaben Hotel, is making extensive improvements to his well known hotel and is installing modern plumbing throughout. The work is being done by the Canfield Stove Co.

ATLANTIC FLEET IS ORDERED TO TAMPICO

Transport With 800 Marines Also Ordered to Sail From New Orleans — Torpedo Fleet Receives Orders to Prepare to Sail for Tampico — Charge O'Shaughnessy Preparing to Leave Mexico City.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson today ordered Admiral Badger to proceed to Tampico at once with all the ships under his command. Admiral Badger now is at Hampton Roads.

At the time orders were issued for the transport Hancock now at New Orleans with 800 marines to proceed at once to Tampico. Orders also were issued to the battleship South Carolina now enroute from San Domingo to join the fleet at Hampton Roads to go direct to Tampico and the gunboat Nashville at San Domingo also was directed to go to Tampico. The gunboat Tacoma now at Boston is to proceed to the Mexican port.

The entire torpedo fleet now at Pensacola was notified to prepare immediately to receive orders to sail for Tampico.

The battleships Vermont, Arkansas, New Jersey, New Hampshire, and Delaware and the destroyers Benham, Cummings, Cassin and Parker are at Hampton Roads.

The battleships Idaho, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri are at Philadelphia.

The North Dakota, Washington, Ohio, Wyoming, Louisiana are at New York.

All of these battleships, comprising the entire Atlantic fleet will get under way with the least possible delay and steam at forced draft to Tampico.

This will give the United State at least twenty first class battleships, together with half a dozen torpedo destroyers to back up President Wilson's demand that reparation be made for the insult in the arrest of American marines at Tampico last Thursday.

The action in ordering the Atlantic fleet, the second strongest single squadron in the world to Tampico, followed discussion of the Tampico incident at the cabinet meeting at the White House today.

A wireless report from Rear Admiral Mayo stating that not only had the salute not been fired but that the port authorities had declared they did not intend to fire any salute, induced President Wilson and the cabinet to order the entire Atlantic fleet rushed to Tampico for a demonstration.

The assemblage of the score of dreadnaughts and the dozen or more smaller vessels off Tampico will form one of the greatest offense naval demonstrations the world ever has witnessed.

Naval experts have stated that a single broadside from this fleet would blow all the Tampico fortifications to pieces.

It is not believed here, however, that the Atlantic fleet will do anything more at present than make a hostile demonstration. No shots will be fired unless congress authorizes a declaration of war.

Beyond giving out the orders to Admiral Badger, Secretary of the Navy Daniels refused absolutely to discuss the situation as did Secretary of State Bryan and other high government officials.

This is the most hostile action President Wilson can take. Declaration of war will have to be made by congress, but the president as commander in chief of the army and navy is empowered to make a naval demonstration off Tampico to force the desired salute to the American colors.

It is probable that the fleet will get under way early tomorrow from New York and Philadelphia, will congregate at Hampton roads, and will proceed within 48 hours to Tampico.

Mexico City, April 14.—That the diplomatic situation involving the United States and Mexico is becoming decidedly strained was indicated today by reports that Charge d'affaires O'Shaughnessy was preparing to leave for Washington.

A friend of the American official said today that Mr. O'Shaughnessy "had been working very hard and needed a rest and for that reason had decided to go home."

Despite this explanation, rumors were circulated that O'Shaughnessy had been summoned by his government.

If he leaves his duties will be taken over by Arnold Shanklin, the United States consul.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN BOSTON FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, April 14.—Seven persons lost their lives—five woman, a man and a two year old baby—during a fire which swept through five floors of the Melvin, a fashionable apartmnt house at No. 315 Commonwealth avenue early today. Two lost their lives by jumping from the windows.

The dead are:

Mrs. E. G. Bemis.
J. Raymond Power, wife and two year old son.
Mrs. Alice Shackford.
Mrs. F. C. Beharrell.
Maid in the Power household.

Injured:

C. W. Rogers, burned about the head and arms. Contusions and abrasions, severe scalp wound.

Mrs. Edith Bemis, was on the fourth floor with Mrs. Robert Adams. They made a rope of sheets and attached it to steam pipes inside the window ledge. Mrs. Adams came down first and succeeded in reaching the ground safely, but Mrs. Bemis in her fright lost her hold and fell to the street.

Others of the dead were stifled in their rooms by the smoke.

In the building were 26 suites, most of them occupied. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

The spread of the fire may be attributed in part to the oversight of the person who went to the fire alarm box to put in the alarm. This person opened the door of the box, but neglected to pull down the hook.

Ten minutes later this fact was discovered by Patrolman Frank Shaughnessy who sounded the alarm.

THAW WINS FIGHT FOR HIS LIBERTY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Littleton, N. H., April 14.—Harry K. Thaw has won his fight for a writ of habeas corpus. Federal Judge Edgar Aldrich, of the United States district court of New Hampshire handed down his decision today on the petition of Thaw asking that he be discharged from the extradition proceedings under which the state of New York has been trying to force Thaw's return to Matteawan.

The decision was in Thaw's favor. The court grants the writ, but the formal order will not be entered until the state of New York can appeal the case to the United States supreme court, which will determine whether Thaw shall be admitted to bail.

Thaw's attorneys are confident that he will be freed on a small cash bond.

The announcement of Judge Aldrich's decision here came as a surprise. It was expected that the decision would be filed in Concord, where Thaw is, but Judge Aldrich saw fit to do otherwise. He has been preparing the decision for two weeks in Boston.

William Travers Jerome is expected to come at once from New York to see to the appeal. Judge Aldrich in his decision, a thirty page printed document, directs that Thaw be held to give New York state ample time to take any steps desired.

Judge Aldrich's decision is a tremendous victory for Thaw.

It means that he has won his whole fight so far as victory is possible without a decision by the supreme court.

Thaw's fight in this state began last September when he was arrested at Colebrook, N. H., after being deported from Canada. On September 17 he was taken to Concord and there kept under surveillance in the Eagle Hotel while his lawyers opened a hard fight against his removal to Matteawan.

The attorneys were successful in securing a writ of habeas corpus and when Governor Felker honored the requisition papers issued in New York state the case was automatically transferred to the federal courts.

Judge Aldrich appointed a commission to inquire into Thaw's sanity. This commission decided that if Thaw were insane he was not violent enough to be a menace to the public. Thaw's lawyers then fought to have their client admitted to bail, but this was just as vigorously opposed by William Travers Jerome, special deputy attorney general for New York state, who was appointed to combat Thaw's efforts to escape an involuntary return to Matteawan. Today's decision by Judge Aldrich upholds the habeas corpus writ.

MR. MERCHANT, the public has been harangued too long. Its ears are jangling, its eyes are weary with following wild gestures of inexperienced, amateur advertisers. Its intelligence has been insulted too often, its credulity stretched too far. Readers turn with relief to my low-voiced, moderate, non-exaggerated advertisements, booklets, circulars, business letters, etc., because they appeal to reason. MEXICANS HAVE NOT SALUTED THE FLAG

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, April 14.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, received a long cablegram from Washington early today that is believed to contain the final and peremptory demand from the United States government for a salute to the flag by Mexican troops at Tampico as complete reparation for the arrest of United States marines there.

Charge O'Shaughnessy refused to reveal the contents of the message, but it is reported that it extended the time limit three days in which President Huerta may reach a decision as to what action he will take. This three day period will end at 6 p. m. Thursday.

Minister of War Blanquet refused to comment today on the Vera Cruz dispatches that quote General Gustavo Maas as stating that the American flag would not be saluted by the Tampico soldiers, but attaches of the war department intimated that General Maas would have the full backing of his supporters "if even President Huerta ruled otherwise." This last statement indicated that friction had arisen between General Blanquet and the president. It was regarded as significant in this connection that General Blanquet was the first to leave the cabinet meeting held at the national palace on Monday morning.

The minister of war was apparently in a towering rage, failing to notice the saluting guards on duty at the palace.

It was afterward rumored that President Huerta had told his ministers that he would order the Tampico commander, Genral Zaragoza, to comply with Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute, but that General Blanquet had refused to sanction such a course and had warned Huerta that if he yielded a new head would have to be found for the department of war.

The Ninety-nine Team Won.

The Ninety-nine team defeated the Spring street team Saturday by the score of 6 to 4, ten innings. The batteries were Gilson, Goodgoin, Hicks and Jenks for the Ninety-nines and Manning, Tierney, Mankin and Flicker for Spring street.

ATLANTIC FLEET IS ORDERED TO TAMPICO

Transport With 800 Marines Also Ordered to Sail From New Orleans — Torpedo Fleet Receives Orders to Prepare to Sail for Tampico — Charge O'Shaughnessy Preparing to Leave Mexico City.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson today ordered Admiral Badger to proceed to Tampico at once with all the ships under his command. Admiral Badger now is at Hampton Roads.

At the time orders were issued for the transport Hancock now at New Orleans with 800 marines to proceed at once to Tampico. Orders also were issued to the battleship South Carolina now enroute from San Domingo to join the fleet at Hampton Roads to go direct to Tampico and the gunboat Nashville at San Domingo also was directed to go to Tampico. The gunboat Tacoma now at Boston is to proceed to the Mexican port.

The entire torpedo fleet now at Pensacola was notified to prepare immediately to receive orders to sail for Tampico.

The battleships Vermont, Arkansas, New Jersey, New Hampshire, and Delaware and the destroyers Benham, Cummings, Cassin and Parker are at Hampton Roads.

The battleships Idaho, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri are at Philadelphia.

The North Dakota, Washington, Ohio, Wyoming, Louisiana are at New York.

All of these battleships, comprising the entire Atlantic fleet will get under way with the least possible delay and steam at forced draft to Tampico.

This will give the United State at least twenty first class battelships, together with half a dozen torpedo destroyers to back up President Wilson's demand that reparation be made for the insult in the arrest of American marines at Tampico last Thursday.

The action in ordering the Atlantic fleet, the second strongest single squadron in the world to Tampico, followed discussion of the Tampico incident at the cabinet meeting at the White House today.

A wireless report from Rear Admiral Mayo stating that not only had the salute not been fired but that the port authorities had declared they did not intend to fire any salute, induced President Wilson and the cabinet to order the entire Atlantic fleet rushed to Tampico for a demonstration.

The assemblage of the score of dreadnaughts and the dozen or more smaller vessels off Tampico will form one of the greatest offense naval demonstrations the world ever has witnessed.

Naval experts have stated that a single broadside from this fleet would blow all the Tampico fortifications to pieces.

It is not believed here, however, that the Atlantic fleet will do anything more at present than make a hostile demonstration. No shots will be fired unless congress authorizes a declaration of war.

Beyond giving out the orders to Admiral Badger, Secretary of the Navy Daniels refused absolutely to discuss the situation as did Secretary of State Bryan and other high government officials.

This is the most hostile action President Wilson can take. Declaration of war will have to be made by congress, but the president as commander in chief of the army and navy is empowered to make a naval demonstration off Tampico to force the desired salute to the American colors.

It is probable that the fleet will get under way early tomorrow from New York and Philadelphia, will congregate at Hampton roads, and will proceed within 48 hours to Tampico.

Mexico City, April 14.—That the diplomatic situation involving the United States and Mexico is becoming decidedly strained was indicated today by reports that Charge d'affaires O'Shaughnessy was preparing to leave for Washington.

A friend of the American official said today that Mr. O'Shaughnessy "had been working very hard and needed a rest and for that reason had decided to go home."

Despite this explanation, rumors were circulated that O'Shaughnessy had been summoned by his government.

If he leaves his duties will be taken over by Arnold Shanklin, the United States consul.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN BOSTON FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, April 14.—Seven persons lost their lives—five woman, a man and a two year old baby—during a fire which swept through five floors of the Melvin, a fashionable apartmnt house at No. 315 Commonwealth avenue early today. Two lost their lives by jumping from the windows.

The dead are:

Mrs. E. G. Bemis.
J. Raymond Power, wife and two year old son.
Mrs. Alice Shackford.
Mrs. F. C. Beharrell.
Maid in the Power household.

Injured:

C. W. Rogers, burned about the head and arms. Contusions and abrasions, severe scalp wound.

Mrs. Edith Bemis, was on the fourth floor with Mrs. Robert Adams. They made a rope of sheets and attached it to steam pipes inside the window ledge. Mrs. Adams came down first and succeeded in reaching the ground safely, but Mrs. Bemis in her fright lost her hold and fell to the street.

Others of the dead were stifled in their rooms by the smoke.

In the building were 26 suites, most of them occupied. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

The spread of the fire may be attributed in part to the oversight of the person who went to the fire alarm box to put in the alarm. This person opened the door of the box, but neglected to pull down the hook.

Ten minutes later this fact was discovered by Patrolman Frank Shaughnessy who sounded the alarm.

THAW WINS FIGHT FOR HIS LIBERTY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Littleton, N. H., April 14.—Harry K. Thaw has won his fight for a writ of habeas corpus. Federal Judge Edgar Aldrich, of the United States district court of New Hampshire handed down his decision today on the petition of Thaw asking that he be discharged from the extradition proceedings under which the state of New York has been trying to force Thaw's return to Matteawan.

The decision was in Thaw's favor. The court grants the writ, but the formal order will not be entered until the state of New York can appeal the case to the United States supreme court, which will determine whether Thaw shall be admitted to bail.

Thaw's attorneys are confident that he will be freed on a small cash bond.

The announcement of Judge Aldrich's decision here came as a surprise. It was expected that the decision would be filed in Concord, where Thaw is, but Judge Aldrich saw fit to do otherwise. He has been preparing the decision for two weeks in Boston.

William Travers Jerome is expected to come at once from New York to see to the appeal. Judge Aldrich in his decision, a thirty page printed document, directs that Thaw be held to give New York state ample time to take any steps desired.

Judge Aldrich's decision is a tremendous victory for Thaw.

It means that he has won his whole fight so far as victory is possible without a decision by the supreme court.

Thaw's fight in this state began last September when he was arrested at Colebrook, N. H., after being deported from Canada. On September 17 he was taken to Concord and there kept under surveillance in the Eagle Hotel while his lawyers opened a hard fight against his removal to Matteawan.

The attorneys were successful in securing a writ of habeas corpus and when Governor Felker honored the requisition papers issued in New York state the case was automatically transferred to the federal courts.

Judge Aldrich appointed a commission to inquire into Thaw's sanity. This commission decided that if Thaw were insane he was not violent enough to be a menace to the public. Thaw's lawyers then fought to have their client admitted to bail, but this was just as vigorously opposed by William Travers Jerome, special deputy attorney general for New York state, who was appointed to combat Thaw's efforts to escape an involuntary return to Matteawan. Today's decision by Judge Aldrich upholds the habeas corpus writ.

Furnishing the Home AT MODERATE COST

It is a mistaken idea, entertained by many people, that things to be tasteful must needs be expensive. If this was ever the case, it is not now, because the manufacturers are making, and we are carrying in stock furniture which is made upon exactly as good lines as the most expensive furniture which is bought. A taste for what is known as Period furniture prevails. OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9882—A Neat Apron—Ladies' Apron.

This simple easily made style is good for gingham, chambray, percale, lawn, denim, sateen and brilliantine. It affords ease to the wearer and protection for the dress beneath. The waist is cut in low, square outline, and gathered to a belt that holds the skirt, which has serviceable pockets. This apron could be charmingly developed in striped gingham or seersucker with the free edges finished in scalloped embroidery or feather stitched. Percale in a pretty pattern with binding of braid or tape in a contrasting color would also be nice. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, medium and large. It requires 3⅛ yards of 36 inch material for a medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1914 Spring and Summer Catalogue, containing over 400 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns; also a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

How to Become a Poet.

"The art of writing poetry is very difficult at first, but it becomes easy by practice," says an English writer. "The best way for a beginner is to take a line from another poem; then he should construct a line to fit it; then, having won his start, he should strike out the first line (which, of course, does not belong to him) and go ahead. When the poet has written three verses of four lines each, he should run out and find a girl somewhere, and read it to her."

PERIOD FURNITURE

Bed Room in LOUIS XV

Furnishing the Home AT MODERATE COST

It is a mistaken idea, entertained by many people, that things to be tasteful must needs be expensive. If this was ever the case, it is not now, because the manufacturers are making, and we are carrying in stock furniture which is made upon exactly as good lines as the most expensive furniture which is bought. A taste for what is known as Period furniture prevails. This is furniture which is made after the designs of English master craftsmen of the XVII century—Sheraton, Chippendale, Heppelwhite and the Adam Brothers.

FOREIGN TRADE IN FRUIT AND NUTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—More than half a billion dollars' worth of fruits and nuts passed into and out of domestic ports during the last decade, 365 million being imports and 220 million exports. The trade in each direction has about doubled in the last decade, imports having risen from 24½ to 48¾ million dollars and exports from 19¾ to 33¾ million dollars in the period from 1903 to 1913.

The opening months of 1914 show, according to statistics compiled by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, increased imports and diminished exports of fruits and nuts as compared with January and February of last year. Imports during the first two months of this year aggregated over 6 million dollars' value, or 20 per cent more than those for a like period of 1913, while exports amounted to 4 million dollars, or about 30 per cent less than a year ago. The sharp decrease in exports reflects the shortage in crops during 1913 on the Pacific coast, where, it is reported, stocks of all kinds of dried fruits on hand at the present time are at the lowest point ever recorded.

Our domestic food supply was supplemented last year by 32 million dollars' worth of fruits and 16 million dollars' worth of nuts from foreign countries and, in addition, over 4 million dollars' worth of fruits and nuts from Hawaii and 3½ million dollars' worth from Porto Rico.

A comparatively small number of countries supply most of the fruits and nuts, other than those of domestic production, consumed in the United States. Bananas are exclusively from American countries, chiefly the British West Indies and Central America; last year's imports were valued at 15 million dollars, or almost double the figures of 1903. Sicily supplied most of the 6½ million dollars' worth of lemons imported. We now import over 40 million pounds of dates annually, chiefly from Asiatic Turkey. Currants come principally from Greece, from which country we import from 30 to 40 million pounds annually. Most of the 20 million pounds of figs imported annually come from a strip of land near Smyrna, about 90 miles long and less than 1 mile wide, this being the world's chief dried-fig district. We also import from 1 to 2 million cubic feet of grapes, nearly all from Spain. Spain rivals Asiatic Turkey as a source for our imported raisins and exceeds Greece and Italy in shipments of olives to the United States, though Italy still supplies most of our imported olive oil. The domestic orange has almost entirely supplanted the imported fruit, the few oranges still being imported coming chiefly from Jamaica. Mexican oranges are no longer imported, having been excluded by plant-quarantine order. In Hawaii the pineapple is becoming an important industry, that island having sent us last year 4 million dollars' worth, or forty times as much as in 1903. Cuba is also an important source, while pineapples are received from Porto Rico in rapidly increasing quantities.

The so-called English walnut is almost exclusively the product of France, from which country we import from 15 to 25 million pounds annually. Our imported almonds are mostly from Spain and Italy; our filberts from Italy and Spain; cream nuts from Brazil; cocoanuts in the shell, from Central America and the West Indies; cocoanut meat, or copra, from the Philippines and other oriental islands, and peanuts, from Japan, Spain, China and in lesser quantities from various countries in Europe Asia and North America.

While domestic consumption still absorbs our rapidly growing production of fruits, the exports of that class are distributed in all parts of the world. Europe is the principal customer for all of our exported fruits except oranges, lemons and raisins. Germany takes about one-half of the dried apples and the United Kingdom a like proportion of the green apples exported. Nearly one-half of the apricots went last year to France, Germany and the Netherlands, while the United Kingdom alone took one-third of the total. Nearly all of the oranges, over three-fourths of the lemons and over one-half of the raisins exported went to Canada. Germany and Canada each take about one-third of the dried peaches exported, the remainder going to about 50 different countries. Out of 94 million pounds of prunes exported last year, 34 million went to Germany, 14 million to France, 11 million to the United Kingdom and 12 million to Canada.

Fruits and nuts exported last year included: Apples, green or ripe, 7½ million dollars; dried apples, 2¾ million; prunes, 5½ million; oranges, 2 2-3 million; apricots, 2 1-3 million; pears, 1½ million; raisins, 1 million; berries two-thirds of a million, and peanuts, lemons and peaches each one-third million.

EASTER SERVICES.

Busy and Notable Day at the Church of the Redeemer.

Easter Sunday was a busy day at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The good news of Easter morn was heralded forth by the ringing of the chimes. The grand old Easter carols were played that are the heritage of all Christendom and have come down through the centuries as a precious heritage of a common faith in a risen redeemer.

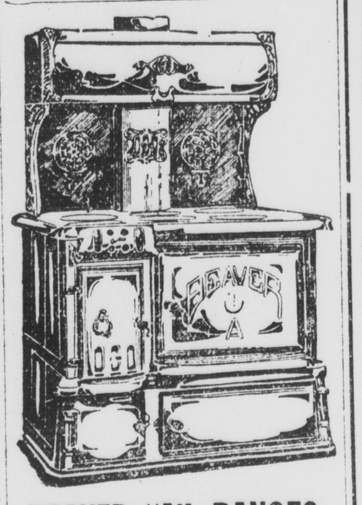

The morning service began at 10 o'clock. Every available seat was occupied. The pastor preached an inspiring sermon on "The Resurrection." He said the reason that Christianity has been such a mighty factor in the progress and civilization of the world was that it instilled hope in the breast of mankind. It robs pessimism, fatalism and a godless stoicism of its destructive force. Men are ready to give their best and live their best in this world because of their hope of the future world. The strength of Christianty lies in the fact of the resurrection. The word of the guarding angel at the empty tomb, has consoled millions of dying men and women in twenty centuries It robs death of its sting. He is risen. A quartet sang, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today" stationed in the echo organ loft. To the large congregation it seemed that an invisible choir was singing in the distance, as the mellow strans of music floated in softly and reminded the worshipers of the significance of the day.

The holy communion was administered to a large congregation. Almost five hundred received the sacrament at the Easter season of communion.

At the evening service the Bible school celebrated Easter. The large school marched in procession into the church singing, "All Hail the power of Jesus Name." The carol singing by the school was inspiring.

Easter is always celebrated with special services in Lutheran Churches.

On Thursday evening a Graphanola concert will be given in the school room for children and parents. The concert begins at 8 o'clock. The general public is cordially welcome.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 14, 1914.

Some fun has been created in the House of Representatives by the reading of articles written by Woodrow Wilson when he was twenty-three years old, in which he expressed opinions quite different from those he now professes. It seems to us not fair to rake up these youthful efforts. How many of us have the same beliefs today which we held thirty years ago? Are those who have not changed not undesirable members of the community—mossbacks, in fact? On the other hand, nothing is more despicable than the weathercock type of man, who changes so swiftly that he can never be depended on. After just how long an interval can a man gracefully reverse himself? Wilson cannot plead immaturity at the time he wanted to knock Bryan into a cocked hat, but perhaps enough time has elapsed to make his change of mind permissible. Such issues as these never trouble Colonel Roosevelt. He cuts the Gordian knot by calling every man a liar who says he said anything he wishes he hadn't said.

For a long time back American citizens have been murdered, robbed and outraged in Mexico, and our Government has merely watched and waited. How different was the procedure when a few marines were arrested by mistake! They were promptly released with apologies, it is true, but Admiral Mayo demanded that another apology be made by firing a salute. The alternative is war. The point seems to be that the sailors who were arrested were carrying a United States flag. Those of us who have heard patriot orators spout on the Fourth of July and on similar occasions are well aware that "the old flag" is a sacred piece of cloth. You may cut up an American citizen into little bits with a dull knife, or you may rob the public treasury or corrupt voters, and you may be forgiven, but if you look cross-eyed at the flag you are lucky not to be lynched. Men have to be well along in civilization before they can distinguish clearly between the emblem and the substance. Anthropologists tell us that in the early days of our race Totemism was the great religion. It must have been, since it still has fanatical adherents in high places.

It is a satisfaction to the justice-loving public to know through the confession of "Dago Frank" that the "gunmen" who were executed Monday were actually guilty. All four were in the conspiracy, even if it be true that one of them did not fire and that another was not present on the scene. The law makes no distinction based on such facts. There is always a possibility that a condemned man is innocent although no "reasonable doubt" can be established. As a general thing a murderer goes to his death protesting innocence. He may confess to a clergyman, but he usually feels justified in stating for publication that he is guiltless, thinking in this may to mitigate the disgrace he has brought upon his family. This was the motive which made "Dago Frank" talk. He could not understand that he was just as guilty as if he had actually fired a shot. No doubt his mother and sister will stand better in their social circle because Frank did not get his hands bloody, but that only shows a change in moral fashions. In some countries and ages it has been esteemed more honorable to strike than to conspire or instigate.

The incorporation of "The American Party" by friends of William Sulzer makes an interesting change in the aspect of the political situation. "Wild Bill" had high hopes of receiving the Progressive nomination for Governor, but has become discouraged by the indications that Colonel Roosevelt will receive that distinction. Perkins, who pays the freight, is said to be opposed to this program, but he is likely to be overruled, since it is the very breath of life for the Colonel to run for something, and he cannot wait until 1916. Sulzer has a like temperament, and is also spurred on by a [illegible] desire to "get even" with his enemies. So nothing remained for him but to organize a party of his own, just as "Teddy" did under somewhat similar circumstances. This will make a four-cornered fight in the coming election. Sulzer's strength, which is much greater than an uninformed sane man might suppose, comes almost entirely from the Democratic party, just as the Progressive strength is drawn principally from the Republican party. The prospects of electing a Republican Governor are therefore much brighter than they were, and the trick of forcing the election of delegates to the Constitutional Convenion next November may prove a boomerang to the Democrats, since all Progressives who are sincere will naturally devote their chief attention to electing delegates, while the fight for the Governorship will be waged over the issue of economical and efficient administration at Albany.

THE TASKS OF THE DAY.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

There are not many people in the world whose lives are so ordered that their very opportunities inspire them and who rest in the comfortable assurance, day after day, that their labors of head or hands are bearing immediate and beautiful fruits.

The rest must plod along in the same old way that apparently leads to nowhere in particular; and as to fruits, it seems to the workers that if there are any fruits they hang far away from mortal eyes. Their work is wearily monotonous, with the same meaningless, humdrum tasks of yesterday to be gone all over today and the many, many tomorrows, with no one to know or to care that they are doing the best they can, no one to say that their work is hard and that it requires a fine brand of courage to carry it along.

And out where the big, successful ones are gathering their wonderful fruits the world admiringly looks on and applauds all the time.

And which are the more heroic figures, which earn the right to thinking applause?

Well, if bigness means doing the right, the needful thing when it is hard to do it, and doing it unflinchingly, with no martial music to help along, then the folk who patiently grind out a round of monotonous tasks and are faithful and cheerful the while, are the ones who stand out the boldest and bravest after all. For about the hardest task of a man or a woman is to be fine and cheery and patient when bound on a treadmill of dispirited work made up of dreary little tasks that have no end.

Work becomes glorified when it is recognized as magnificent and splendid and useful, whether it is out on the big battlefields or in the quieter ways where honors are found, for it is the proud fact of recognition that counts, together with the out-and-out fruits. The very inspirations of the thing sends such honored workers rejoicing on their way.

It is the commonplace things that are hardest to do, the trivial things that must go on day after day, with no inspiriting applause to make them alluring; and they remain commonplace, trivial and unattractive to the end except as the worker's fine courage and cheerfulness elevate them away from the commonplace.

And some time, when records are all in, those dull, seemingly meaningless tasks that are hardest of all to perform, will be measured and credited according to their difficulty and the spirit in which they were performed.

It is true enough, and perhaps natural enough, that all of us want to live, and work in as royal a setting as may be; we would like to start at the very top of the ladder, if possible, and skip the rough steps on the way.

But, do you know that some of the really big, fine, purposeful and genuinely useful folk in the world are those in the most ordinary of settings, men and women who must create their own royalty if they have any. As for me, there always is admiration of anyone who has the something in him that will prompt him to take poor old tools and as poor materials and work them out into a product worth while. It does not mean that his ambition is satisfied with the tools or the product, rather that he has the courage and the strength of character to work away on the material at hand.

There are women today and there always have been women in homes quite barren of luxuries, as luxuries are measured, who are heroines and artists in their inconspicous way. They have the patience and the art to take an old gown of many seasons before, to cleanse it, press it, and fashion it all over until it comes out with the fine stamp of newness upon it. And the older, the more hopeless the gown, the poorer the materials and all, the greater the victory achieved—both in the gown and the woman herself. The great shops of the world where fasions are started turn out exquisite creations, but the fabrics themselves are worth a small fortune and all the embellishments, from neck to hem, bear the mark of many many dollars upon them. Artistic and lovely indeed; but not a thing was missing to make them resplendent while the poor little woman—there are quite a few of her, by the way—who rejuvenates an old garment and makes it look almost fresh as the freshiest, is the one who fairly earns the greater praise. For hers is the hard task, with nothing inspiriting about it, except as it comes through pride in her product.

And since it is only the few with the wonderful talents of the wonderful somethings to make them shine, it is right comforting to the rest of us to remember that the very difficulty, perhaps even the drudgery, of some of our tasks make us all the more heroic when we follow them as well and as cheerfully as may be.

Up in Alaska there used to be a district attorney who was long on native oratory, but short on education. Once, while prosecuting a big case, he came to the finish of his argument; and, according to Wilson Mizner, who was up there at the time, he leaned across the rail and made this plea:

"All I asts of you, gentlemen of the jury is that you now retire and mete out jestice as sre deserves to be met!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Bird Ballast—A Storm Sign.

"What is all that great crowd of crows doing?" we asked the aged lighthouse keeper.

"Them crows there," the old man answered, "is takin' on ballast—a sign of storm."

The beach, while in the winter sunshine, was covered with crows. They seemed to be feeding busily.

"No, they ain't feeding,'" said the keeper. 'They're swallerin' sand; ballast, you know—ballast for the high winds that are comin.' Yep, a storm is doo."

The crows rose, a trifle heavily and flew back inland again. Soon, however, a fresh lot made a second great black blot on the white beach.

"Yep, them's my barometer," said the old keeper. "Crows swallerin' sand for ballast—a sign a storm is doo."—New York Tribune.

Where Daniels Scored.

A story that is going the rounds is as follows: At a recent visit of the secretary of the navy to the academy at Annapolis he was jostled in the crowd of visitors to such a degree that a man of proportions trampled heavily upon the secretarial toe. Instead of apologizing when Mr. Daniels turned his head to see who had crushed his foot, the offender growled out: "What do you mean by giving me such a nasty look?" "Why," returned the secretary suavely, "I notice that you have a nasty look, but I had nothing to do with giving it to you."—Neale's Monthly.

Buncoed.

After much debate on the dangers and risks to be encountered McHaggis decided to leave his home in the Highlands for a week end trip to London.

The old folk at home waited anxiously for their Jock's return, and, when the hour came for the train to arrive, trooped in a body to the station to welcome him.

Jock seemed very silent, and the family glanced apprehensively at each other. Could he have lost his heart to the wiles of some Sassenach siren?

When all were gathered round the blazing fire in the evening his old mother put the dreaded question:

"What ails ye, Jock? Ye've no told us onything aboot Lunnon. Is it no' the fine place they would have us believe?"

"Oh, aye, it's nay so bad!" answered Jock. Then, suddenly, his indignation flared up: "But they're no' honest up there!"

"Whit way are they no' honest, Jock?"

"Weel, I had my doots all the time, but I made sure the day. I bought a packet of pins at the station for a penny, and on the cover it said there were one thousand pins inside. Well, I coonted them in the train, and—would you believe it?—there were only nine hundred and ninety-three!"—New York Mail.

"LIFE ON THE PRAIRIES."

An Evening's Entertainment Without a Dull Second in it.

"Life on the Prairies" was presented by St. Peter's Glee Club to a crowded house in St. Peter's Hall on Monday evening and a more thoroughly delighted audience never assembled in Kingston. From start to finish there was not a dull moment and the constant and rapidly changing succession of events delighted everyone. An amateur performance presented with such snap and vim, without hesitation or error, is rarely seen. Had the company been composed of professionals who had been playing for six months the show could not have been given more smoothly. To the great ability of the Rev. George H. Wermuth, ably assisted by the musical director, Prof. John Schwalbach, in rehearsing the company, much of this success is due, although without talent in the ranks, of course, the best efforts of the management could not have achieved success.

The full strength of the company was on the stage during the whole performance, the strikingly attired Indians, squaws, papooses, cowboys and cowgirls of the chorus making a striking and animated background for the specialties by the conventional stage Irishman, German, Israelite, negro, tramp and farmer comedians, the other soloists and last but not least "Bronco Sierra Doe's Piniosco Bill," which certainly was "a hoss as is a hoss," and made the great hit of the evening and was one of the half dozen specialties, either of which alone would have been worth the price of admission.

Another hit was George Schupp and his "houn' dog" in the song "They Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dog Aroun'," the dog, of exceedingly distinctive size, being led by a two-inch cable and acting its part in a way that made almost as big a hit as did the bronco.

Miss Gertrude Cook in recitations was very effective, and Miss Louise Scherer's recitation of "The Wounded Soldier," was given with rare dramatic fervor.

Matthew Bence, as "Coyote Bill," was immense, the only regret of the audience being that his duties as manager of the ranch entertainment kept him so busy that he sang only one solo.

Reserving the best for the last, the entertainment closed with a humorous skit by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Scherer which was a succession of original witticisms that kept the audience in continuous laughter. The Scherer's have talent that would make for them a reputation on the stage anywhere.

Dancing followed the show, which will be repeated this evening.

The Poughkeepsie Star says: The town board of the town of Wappingers has leased a stone crusher from the Universal Road Machine Company, of Kingston, N. Y., for the coming year. On their return a meeting was called and it was decided to lease the machine for a year. Arrangements have been made with the town of East Fishkill to lease their steam roller for part of the season and this will furnish the power to run the crusher and will also be used to work on the roads. It is the intention to put up a proposition to the people at the fall election to purchase the crusher and a steam roller.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 14, 1914.

Some fun has been created in the House of Representatives by the reading of articles written by Woodrow Wilson when he was twenty-three years old, in which he expressed opinions quite different from those he now professes. It seems to us not fair to rake up these youthful efforts. How many of us have the same beliefs today which we held thirty years ago? Are those who have not changed not undesirable members of the community—mossbacks, in fact? On the other hand, nothing is more despicable than the weathercock type of man, who changes so swiftly that he can never be depended on. After just how long an interval can a man gracefully reverse himself? Wilson cannot plead immaturity at the time he wanted to knock Bryan into a cocked hat, but perhaps enough time has elapsed to make his change of mind permissible. Such issues as these never trouble Colonel Roosevelt. He cuts the Gordian knot by calling every man a liar who says he said anything he wishes he hadn't said.

For a long time back American citizens have been murdered, robbed and outraged in Mexico, and our Government has merely watched and waited. How different was the procedure when a few marines were arrested by mistake! They were promptly released with apologies, it is true, but Admiral Mayo demanded that another apology be made by firing a salute. The alternative is war. The point seems to be that the sailors who were arrested were carrying a United States flag. Those of us who have heard patriot orators spout on the Fourth of July and on similar occasions are well aware that "the old flag" is a sacred piece of cloth. You may cut up an American citizen into little bits with a dull knife, or you may rob the public treasury or corrupt voters, and you may be forgiven, but if you look cross-eyed at the flag you are lucky not to be lynched. Men have to be well along in civilization before they can distinguish clearly between the emblem and the substance. Anthropologists tell us that in the early days of our race Totemism was the great religion. It must have been, since it still has fanatical adherents in high places.

Where Daniels Scored.

A story that is going the rounds is as follows: At a recent visit of the secretary of the navy to the academy at Annapolis he was jostled in the crowd of visitors to such a degree that a man of proportions trampled heavily upon the secretarial toe. Instead of apologizing when Mr. Daniels turned his head to see who had crushed his foot, the offender growled out: "What do you mean by giving me such a nasty look?" "Why," returned the secretary suavely, "I notice that you have a nasty look, but I had nothing to do with giving it to you."—Neale's Monthly.

Buncoed.

After much debate on the dangers and risks to be encountered McHaggis decided to leave his home in the Highlands for a week end trip to London.

The old folk at home waited anxiously for their Jock's return, and, when the hour came for the train to arrive, trooped in a body to the station to welcome him.

Jock seemed very silent, and the family glanced apprehensively at each other. Could he have lost his heart to the wiles of some Sassenach siren?

When all were gathered round the blazing fire in the evening his old mother put the dreaded question:

"What ails ye, Jock? Ye've no told us onything aboot Lunnon. Is it no' the fine place they would have us believe?"

"Oh, aye, it's nay so bad!" answered Jock. Then, suddenly, his indignation flared up: "But they're no' honest up there!"

"Whit way are they no' honest, Jock?"

"Weel, I had my doots all the time, but I made sure the day. I bought a packet of pins at the station for a penny, and on the cover it said there were one thousand pins inside. Well, I coonted them in the train, and—would you believe it?—there were only nine hundred and ninety-three!"—New York Mail.

Hiding the Worst.

"We miss President Wilson's quiet and trenchant wit sadly here at Princeton," said an instructor in Greek.

"I remember, at one of President Wilson's receptions, I complained of a man who boasted of his bad habits.

" 'When a man,' said the president, 'boasts of his bad habits, you may rest assured that they're the best he has.' "—New York Herald.

"LIFE ON THE PRAIRIES."

An Evening's Entertainment Without a Dull Second in it.

"Life on the Prairies" was presented by St. Peter's Glee Club to a crowded house in St. Peter's Hall on Monday evening and a more thoroughly delighted audience never assembled in Kingston. From start to finish there was not a dull moment and the constant and rapidly changing succession of events delighted everyone. An amateur performance presented with such snap and vim, without hesitation or error, is rarely seen. Had the company been composed of professionals who had been playing for six months the show could not have been given more smoothly. To the great ability of the Rev. George H. Wermuth, ably assisted by the musical director, Prof. John Schwalbach, in rehearsing the company, much of this success is due, although without talent in the ranks, of course, the best efforts of the management could not have achieved success.

The full strength of the company was on the stage during the whole performance, the strikingly attired Indians, squaws, papooses, cowboys and cowgirls of the chorus making a striking and animated background for the specialties by the conventional stage Irishman, German, Israelite, negro, tramp and farmer comedians, the other soloists and last but not least "Bronco Sierra Doe's Piniosco Bill," which certainly was "a hoss as is a hoss," and made the great hit of the evening and was one of the half dozen specialties, either of which alone would have been worth the price of admission.

Another hit was George Schupp and his "houn' dog" in the song "They Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dog Aroun'," the dog, of exceedingly distinctive size, being led by a two-inch cable and acting its part in a way that made almost as big a hit as did the bronco.

Miss Gertrude Cook in recitations was very effective, and Miss Louise Scherer's recitation of "The Wounded Soldier," was given with rare dramatic fervor.

Matthew Bence, as "Coyote Bill," was immense, the only regret of the audience being that his duties as manager of the ranch entertainment kept him so busy that he sang only one solo.

Reserving the best for the last, the entertainment closed with a humorous skit by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Scherer which was a succession of original witticisms that kept the audience in continuous laughter. The Scherer's have talent that would make for them a reputation on the stage anywhere.

Dancing followed the show, which will be repeated this evening.

CENSUS OF CITY TO BE TAKEN SOON

Chamber of Commerce Decides to Have a Count Made Next Summer —Dollar Day Sale Endorsed—Parcel Post Extension Discussed.

A complete and full census showing the exact number of the population of the city was authorized at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce held on Monday evening at the city hall. The work of getting the data necessary will be taken up by the canvassers of the Price & Lee Company this summer when they canvass the city for the new directory. The report of the trade extension committee approving the "Dollar Day" sale to be held on Wednesday, April 22, was received and approved.

The meeting was very brief. The first matter taken up was the need of a census showing the exact number of the population and after some discussion the matter was referred to Secretary W. F. Hoehn to make arrangements with the Price & Lee Company to secure the data this summer.

A lengthy resolution adopted by the Merchants' Association of New York city protesting against the further extension of the parcels post system was received accompanied by a communication asking that the local body take some action in the matter. It seemed to be the opinion of many of the directors present that if the government carries out its plan of increasing the parcels post weight from 50 pounds to 100 pounds it would probably force the retirement of the express companies. This was not thought well of and the entire question was finally referred to the executive committee to take some action.

The trade extension committee reported it had held a meeting attended by Everett Blanshan, the advertising manager of The Freeman, and he had thoroughly explained plans for holding the "Dollar Day" sale and the date had been fixed as Wednesday, April 22. The plans call for every merchant in the city to co-operate by placing on sale that day either single articles or combinations that could be had for a dollar. The committee also suggested that those merchants who handled stock that sold for more than a dollar, such as clothing, furniture and plumbing fixtures join in the sale by throwing off a dollar on the regular price that day. In this way every merchant in the city could participate in the big sale. The report was adopted and approved.

An invitation was received from the Knights of Columbus inviting the board to inspect its new club house on April 21, and on motion the president was authorized to appoint a committee to represent the Chamber of Commerce.

President Bernstein was appointed a delegate to attend the international arbitration meeting to be held at Lake Mohonk, May 27 to 28.

A committee from the board was appointed by President Bernstein to attend the military ball and review of Company M at the armory.

The transportation committee exhibited a large chart it had prepared showing comparisons of freight, express and parcels post rates from Kingston. These charts which are exceedingly valuable and represent a vast amount of labor will be given each member of the Chamber of Commerce to keep on file.

Twelve petitions filed with signatures asking that Kingston be made a barge canal terminal will be filed shortly at Albany and President Bernstein will later appoint a committee to accompany Mayor Canfield to that city when the petitions are filed.

At a previous meeting of the board a special committee on the national guard and naval militia was appointed consisting of John E. Mahar and Alderman Martin and the committee submitted the following report at the meeting:

"Your committee appointed to consider the matters concerning national guard and naval militia of the state as suggested and presented by the Chamber of Commerce of New York city would respectfully report that they are ready to act further in concert with similar committees from other organizations when called upon in the interests of the welfare of the arganized militia affairs of the state.

"The committee also desires to call attention to the local company of the state national guard known as Company M and to commend its efficiency as creditable to the state and its people. The committee believes however, that a closer bond of interest should be aroused upon the part of the city's business interests in military affairs that would be of value to the local military organization."

The report was received and adopted and the committee continued.

Secretary Hoehn read a number of communications showing that the board was active in endeavoring to induce manufacturers to remove to this city.

There being no further business the board adjourned.

FIRE AT FLATBUSH.

Burhans Residence and Contents Destroyed on Monday Evening.

About nine o'clock Monday night the residence of Levi H. Burhans, near the Dr. Shrady property at Flatbush, was destroyed by fire. Mr. Burhans saw the blaze and with neighbors rushed to the scene but the roof had fallen in before they arrived and they were unable to save anything. The fire spread to the brush and grass nearby and they confined their efforts to prevent the spread of flames to the summer residence of Mr. Mellin of Schenectady. The Burhans home was a two story frame building and was valued together with the contents at $6,000. There was $1,200 insurance on the building with the Hartford Insurance Company and $300 in the Ulster Co-Operative Insurance Company on the contents. There were paintings in the house valued alone at over $300.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, April 14.—While something like 175,000 fanatics alternately ate peanuts and shouted their greetings, the major league clubs of Organized Baseball lifted the cover from the 1914 season and began the business of cavorting on the various greens in regular fashion.

It was a gala day for baseball and also for the fans. Fandom showed how eager it was to get a glimpse of the big leaguers in their opening battles of the season by fighting among themselves hours before the game started for choice seats from which to watch the doings of the athletes.

A capacity crowd at each of the parks was indicated by the early sale of tickets, and in some cities it seemed certain long before the game began that many of the late coming fans would be turned away because of lack of room for their accommodation.

In the National League the Giants were billed to open at Philadelphia, the Boston Braves displayed their wares in Brooklyn, the Pirates were to meet in a headon collision with the Cardinals in the Missouri city, and the Cubs tackled Charley Herzog's Reds in the Redleg town.

The world champion Athletics opened with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds, the Senators grappled with the Red Sox in the Hub city, the Naps were billed to open with the White Sox in Chicago and the Browns and Tigers were scheduled to settle their first argument of the season in the Michigan city.

There was considerable speculation as to the outcome of the Giant-Phillie battle. The two were bitter enemies last year, and seemed for a time about evenly matched. But this year the Phillies, raided by the Feds, have sent into action a lineup that seemed somewhat strange to the fans, and which on paper seemed weaker than last year's combination. But Charley Dooin, the red headed manager had come to the fore with the remark that "despite the loss of several of our best men we are as strong as we were last year, and we'll furnish a few surprises."

The Yankee lineup for the opening game this year and the 1913 opener was just about as different as day and night. Only one man outside a catcher and three pitchers remains of the 1913 Yankee team, and Chance in sicing his new combination at the Athletics was confident that it would prove a stumbling block to the Philadelphia boys, whose victories over the Yankees last year greatly aided them in their fight for the pennant.

The Boston Braves looked upon as the dark horses in the National League battle, sized up today as one of the best aggregations that ever fought under the Braves' banners. The addition of the peppery Evers has added about 20 per cent to the strength of the team, and with the pitching staff in good shape, it looked today as if the Braves would "blow" themselves to a nice little start and that they would furnish trouble all the way.

The Senators looked mighty good when they lined up for battle today. With Johnson still in his old form, with two of Griffith's young twirlers giving promise of being able to help out the Speed King, and with the outfield and infield intact, the boys from Washington look like formidable foes.

The Naps didn't look overly husky today when they prepared for their first clash of the season. Of course, the slugging pair, Jackson and Lajoie, were among those present, and with batting orbs undimmed, but the loss of Falkenberg, the Naps' pitching mainstay last season, and the fact that Chapman, the shortstop, who broke an ankle some weeks ago, won't be able to get into the game for another month, seemed to take away about 20 per cent of the club's normal strength.

The plans call for every merchant in the city to co-operate by placing on sale that day either single articles or combinations that could be had for a dollar. The committee also suggested that those merchants who handled stock that sold for more than a dollar, such as clothing, furniture and plumbing fixtures, join in the sale by throwing off a dollar on the regular price that day. In this way every merchant in the city could participate in the big sale. The report was adopted and approved.

An invitation was received from the Knights of Columbus inviting the board to inspect its new club house on April 21, and on motion the president was authorized to appoint a committee to represent the Chamber of Commerce.

President Bernstein was appointed a delegate to attend the international arbitration meeting to be held at Lake Mohonk, May 27 to 28.

A committee from the board was appointed by President Bernstein to attend the military ball and review of Company M at the armory.

The transportation committee exhibited a large chart it had prepared showing comparisons of freight, express and parcels post rates from Kingston. These charts which are exceedingly valuable and represent a vast amount of labor will be given each member of the Chamber of Commerce to keep on file.

Twelve petitions filed with signatures asking that Kingston be made a barge canal terminal will be filed shortly at Albany and President Bernstein will later appoint a committee to accompany Mayor Canfield to that city when the petitions are filed.

At a previous meeting of the board a special committee on the national guard and naval militia was appointed consisting of John E. Mahar and Alderman Martin and the committee submitted the following report at the meeting:

"Your committee appointed to consider the matters concerning national guard and naval militia of the state as suggested and presented by the Chamber of Commerce of New York city would respectfully report that they are ready to act further in concert with similar committees from other organizations when called upon in the interests of the welfare of the organized militia affairs of the state.

"The committee also desires to call attention to the local company of the state national guard known as Company M and to commend its efficiency as creditable to the state and its people. The committee believes however, that a closer bond of interest should be aroused upon the part of the city's business interests in military affairs that would be of value to the local military organization."

The report was received and adopted and the committee continued.

Secretary Hoehn read a number of communications showing that the board was active in endeavoring to induce manufacturers to remove to this city.

There being no further business the board adjourned.

The fire spread to the brush and grass nearby and they confined their efforts to prevent the spread of flames to the summer residence of Mr. Mellin of Schenectady. The Burhans home was a two story frame building and was valued together with the contents at $6,000. There was $1,200 insurance on the building with the Hartford Insurance Company and $300 in the Ulster Co-Operative Insurance Company on the contents. There were paintings in the house valued alone at over $300.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

New York, April 14.—While something like 175,000 fanatics alternately ate peanuts and shouted their greetings, the major league clubs of Organized Baseball lifted the cover from the 1914 season and began the business of cavorting on the various greens in regular fashion.

It was a gala day for baseball and also for the fans. Fandom showed how eager it was to get a glimpse of the big leaguers in their opening battles of the season by fighting among themselves hours before the game started for choice seats from which to watch the doings of the athletes.

A capacity crowd at each of the parks was indicated by the early sale of tickets, and in some cities it seemed certain long before the game began that many of the late coming fans would be turned away because of lack of room for their accommodation.

In the National League the Giants were billed to open at Philadelphia, the Boston Braves displayed their wares in Brooklyn, the Pirates were to meet in a headon collision with the Cardinals in the Missouri city, and the Cubs tackled Charley Herzog's Reds in the Redleg town.

The world champion Athletics opened with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds, the Senators grappled with the Red Sox in the Hub city, the Naps were billed to open with the White Sox in Chicago and the Browns and Tigers were scheduled to settle their first argument of the season in the Michigan city.

There was considerable speculation as to the outcome of the Giant-Phillie battle. The two were bitter enemies last year, and seemed for a time about evenly matched. But this year the Phillies, raided by the Feds, have sent into action a lineup that seemed somewhat strange to the fans, and which on paper seemed weaker than last year's combination. But Charley Dooin, the red headed manager had come to the fore with the remark that "despite the loss of several of our best men we are as strong as we were last year, and we'll furnish a few surprises."

The Yankee lineup for the opening game this year and the 1913 opener was just about as different as day and night. Only one man outside a catcher and three pitchers remains of the 1913 Yankee team, and Chance in sicing his new combination at the Athletics was confident that it would prove a stumbling block to the Philadelphia boys, whose victories over the Yankees last year greatly aided them in their fight for the pennant.

The Boston Braves looked upon as the dark horses in the National League battle, sized up today as one of the best aggregations that ever fought under the Braves' banners. The addition of the peppery Evers has added about 20 per cent to the strength of the team, and with the pitching staff in good shape, it looked today as if the Braves would "blow" themselves to a nice little start and that they would furnish trouble all the way.

The Senators looked mighty good when they lined up for battle today. With Johnson still in his old form, with two of Griffith's young twirlers giving promise of being able to help out the Speed King, and with the outfield and infield intact, the boys from Washington look like formidable foes.

The Naps didn't look overly husky today when they prepared for their first clash of the season. Of course, the slugging pair, Jackson and Lajoie, were among those present, and with batting orbs undimmed, but the loss of Falkenberg, the Naps' pitching mainstay last season, and the fact that Chapman, the shortstop, who broke an ankle some weeks ago, won't be able to get into the game for another month, seemed to take away about 20 per cent of the club's normal strength.

That's the opinion of people who have seen the CAR—NATION—CAR.

How can they afford to put up such a high price looking car at such a small cost?

CAR-NATION.

Four passenger ..... $520.00 f. o. b. Detroit
Two passenger ..... $495.00 f. o. b. Detroit

With careful study on several parts which run up into money on an automobile and having the necessary machinery to turn out those parts in one-half the time that it would cost to turn out on much higher priced cars, we have brought those parts down to a minimum, therefore dividing our profits with you. You will never regret it if you own this car, and furthermore a year's guarantee goes with it. Will other automobile concerns do that? Try it and see. It will be worth your while to look us up.

SCOTCH EXPRESS BADLY WRECKED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Aberdeen, Scotland, April 14.—The famous Scotch Express, the train de luxe of northern Britain, was wrecked near Burnt Island Station today. The engineer and fireman were killed outright and five passengers were so seriously injured that they will probably die.

While en route to this city from Edinburgh and while traveling at sixty miles an express train crashed head on into a freight.

The passenger engine was hurled from the rails upon a golf links that lies parallel to the tracks at that point, dragging two of the coaches after it. Two of the express cars attached to the train turned over and the other cars piled up against the wreckage.

Fire broke out in the debris and the injured were badly burned. A special train was made up at Dumfermline and rushed to the scene bearing wrecking apparatus and medical supplies.

The victims, all of whom were Scotch, were given first aid treatment on the scene, then taken to hospitals.

The Scotch Express is one of the fastest trains in the British Isles and usually carries a large number of foreign tourists.

County Board of Canvassers.

The board of supervisors met at the county clerk's office at noon today and organized as a board of canvassers by electing Supervisor Charles A. Schermerhorn as chairman. The meeting was called to order by Deputy County Clerk Grove Webster, Jr., and Supervisor Woolsey nominated Supervisor Schermerhorn as chairman, seconded by Supervisor Schick and carried. On motion of Supervisor Fratsher, seconded by Supervisor Kolts and carried the board took a recess until 2 o'clock this afternoon at the court house when they will take up their duties.

St. John's Church Election.

At a meeting of the congregation of St. John's Church this morning the following officers were elected for the church year: Wardens, Louis B. Vaughan, Thomas A. Horton; vestrymen, Edwin N. Snow, Fred C. Winters, James O. Winston, Dr. Henry Behrens, Louis Kegler, Edwin Moore and George DuBois. There was also a tie vote between C. V. A. Decker and O. M. Kennedy for vestryman.

Matrimonial Troubles.

Fred Barth, Jr., was arrested on Monday night by Policeman James Murphy on the charge of non-support preferred by his wife. This morning when arraigned before Recorder Grogan he promised to return and care for his better half and the complaint was withdrawn.

The adjourned case of The People against James Brown, also arrested for non-support, was adjourned for two weeks. Brown agreed to provide for his wife's support in the meantime.

MAP SHOWS HOW REBELS ARE WRESTING TERRITORY FROM HUERTA'S CONTROL.

An idea of the immense area of the territory in Northern Mexico that has fallen into the hands of Constitutionalists, as a result of the fall of Torreon, is gained by a comparison of the five states now in the rebel's hands with American states. The total area of Sonora, Chihuahua, Durango, Sinaloa and Tamaulipas all reckoned as Constitutional territory, is 274,976 square miles, as compared with 262,290 square miles, the area of all Texas, and 47,260 square miles, the area of the state of New York, or approximately six times the area of the Empire State. The shaded portions of the map represent the territory now in the control of the rebels.

EDDYITE LECTURE WELL ATTENDED

Attempt to Bar Christian Scientists From Y. M. C. A. Apparently Boosted the Attendance—Prof. Michael Introduced the Speaker.

Probably on account of the publicity and discussion brought about by the attempt to bar the Christian Scientists from Y. M. C. A. Hall, an audience of unusual size listened to the lecture on Christian Science Monday evening, the hall being about three-fourths filled. The lecturer, Clarence W. Chadwick, C. S. B., a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, was introduced by Prof. Myron J. Michael, a member of the consistory of the First Reformed Church. His lecture briefly summarized, was as follows:

The belief that consciousness is both good and evil has been the seeming cause of untold suffering and torment to the human race.

Christian Science defines real consciousness as the one infinite intelligence or mind which is God, good. "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind," involves a mental process of separation of right and wrong thought.

Right thoughts or ideas in Christian Science are emanations of the one divine mind or intelligence. Wrong thoughts are beliefs only.

The Christ, Truth, is the true or spiritual idea of God, a divine activity or influence which operates mentally to destroy all belief in an evil consciousness. It is the only remedy for both sin and disease.

Mary Baker Eddy is the discoverer and founder of Christian Science. Her genuine nobility of character, her intensely religious nature, and her unbounded love for God and humanity, made her one of the world's greatest of modern religious leaders and teachers. Christian Science did not originate in Mrs. Eddy's human mind. It was the Christ idea of the oneness and allness of divine mind that found expression in her purified mentality. The revelation of the spiritual idea to Mrs. Eddy's consciousness is the greatest mental phenomenon that could ever be experienced by a human being. It is "the resurrection and the life" to all who love God and keep His commandments.

The Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," is the natural and logical outcome of Mrs. Eddy's unselfed devotion and fidelity to the spiritual idea.

OUR BIG COUNTRY.

One Season When the Sun Never Sets on the Stars and Stripes.

There is only one flag that the sun never sets on—the British. But the American flag is a close second, for the sun during half the year never sets on it either. That is to say, these two are the only flags that the sun is continuously shining over, no matter what his position in the heavens—the one all the year round and the other during exactly half the year, from March 22 to Sept. 22.

Of course it is true that on no day at all during the year can the sun be seen from any two points of continental United States at all times during a period of twenty-four hours. But the United States naval observatory has made careful calculations which by including Alaska, Porto Rico and the Philippines show that between the spring and fall equinoxes the sun never ceases to shine in the eyes of the American eagle.

Perhaps nothing could make us realize how great a nation our expanded country is better than this simple astronomical fact. Moreover, within these two dates there are also several other pairs of eastern and western extreme points where the same condition obtains, though for much shorter times.

It is not generally known, but the easternmost point in the United States and its island possessions is in the island of Porto Rico—longitude 65 degrees 12 minutes west, latitude 18 degrees 20 minutes north. The westernmost point is in Balobe island, in the Philippines—longitude 116 degrees 40 minutes east, latitude 8 degrees 0 minutes north. When the sun is at what the calendar makers call "north declination" of 0 degrees 19 minutes—that is to say, on March 22 and on Sept. 22—it rises in Porto Rico at exactly the same time that it sets in the island of Balobe. Between these two dates during the winter months the sun does set on the United States, and during the remainder of the year, the summer months, it does not.—Exchange.

The Power of Advertising.

The power of advertising is told by a manager of the toilet department of a large New York department store. "We have six different makes of one toilet article," he said, "and they are so near alike in quality that even experts can't tell the difference between them, yet we sell as much of one as we do of all the others together, just because the manufacturer is everlastingly advertising it. The other five sell in proportion to the amount of advertising given to them. If there is any difference in quality it is in favor of the poorest seller."—New York Herald.

As to Quotations.

How many persons can unhesitatingly name the source of the familiar quotations? Many a man goes through life without reading a single play of Shakespeare, but probably no English speaking man goes through life without quoting him. If he sneers at "a woman's reason," he quotes Shakespeare; if he refers to "a trick worth two of that," he quotes Shakespeare again.

Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" is not a popular work, but one line of it—"Ask me no questions, and I will tell you no lies"—is known and used by everybody.

Exit Common Informer.

It was not always a good thing to be a common informer. One remembers the instance of an act that was passed making the penalty for a certain offense a fine of £500—half to go to the informer. In committee, imprisonment for two years was substituted for the fine, but the rest of the clause was allowed to stand. In consequence this part of the act became practically a dead letter, no common informer being desirous of securing his just and legal due.—London Chronicle.

Two of a Kind.

"Come, come," cried the brusque and hustling real estate man, "why do you pay rent when you might own a home?"

"I—I don't pay rent," replied the startling stranger.

"Then you own a home?"

"N-no."

"That's strange. May I ask your business?"

"I'm a real estate dealer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Voice of Experience.

"I can't understand why married couples ever have a disagreement," she said. "I don't see why those matters can't be so adjusted that there will be no friction. Now, my husband and I understand each other thoroughly."

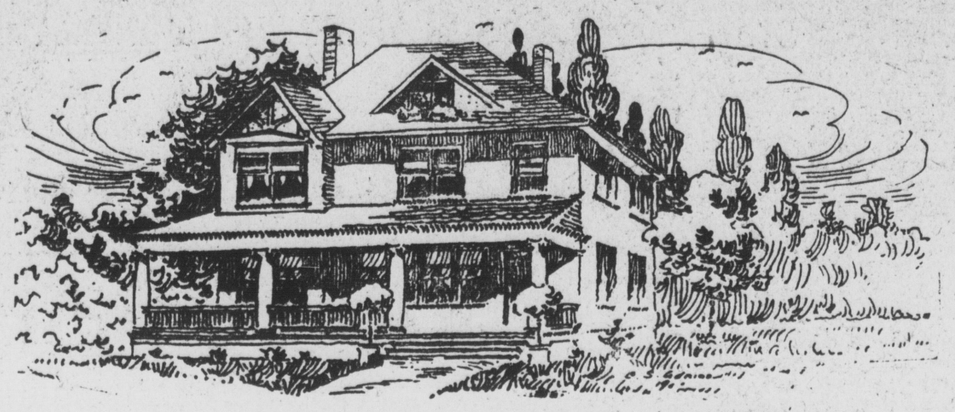

"Indeed!" he replied. "How long have you been married?"

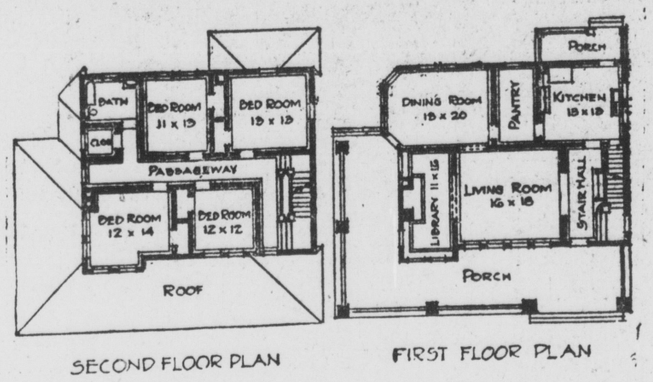

"Nearly three days."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Helpful Husband.

Newly-Wedded Husband (fresh from the altar)—"Excuse me taking the liberty, sir, but do you happen to know of any place where my wife could get a little charring to do?"—Punch.

LOYAL WIDOWS OF YOUNG GANGSTERS WHO PAID PENALTY FOR MURDER.

Left to right: Mrs. Lefty Louie Rosenberg and Mrs. Gyp the Blood Horowitz, the two young girls whose gangster-husbands paid the penalty of having lived the lives of typical New York gangsters by being executed with Dago Frank and Whitey Lewis in Sing Sing prison for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The young gunmen and their wives united in issuing a warning to all young men to keep away from gangs and youths who aspire to be lawbreakers. The boys contended up to the very last that they were innocent, as did their loyal young wives. They declared that they were convicted simply because they had established bad records for themselves by being members of notorious East Side gangs.

CAREER OF RIXEY, CRACK PHILLY PITCHER

Eppa Rixey, Jr., Philadelphia Twirler.

Eppa Rixey, Jr., the Philadelphia Nationals' young pitcher who jumped to fame by his clever work on the slab last season, was born in Culpeper, Va., May 3, 1891. He gained his first baseball experience at the Jefferson school, Charlottesville, Va., where he pitched for his school team in 1907-08-09. He entered the University of Virginia in 1909, and for three seasons was the mainstay on the slab for the Virginia nine. Three years ago Umpire Rigler of the National league, who was coaching the university baseball squad, saw possibilities in Rixey and took particular pains to develop the tall boy. Eppa joined the Phillies after the close of the college season two years ago, and right off the reel began to stand National league batsmen on their heads and he gives promise of being better this season.

FOR THE ATHLETES IN 1915

Every Branch of Athletics and Sporting to Be Covered at San Francisco-Panama Fair.

Tentative programs for national and international athletics in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915 have been announced by Director of Athletics James E. Sullivan. The schedule of sports covers a period from February 20 to December 4, during which time more than 80 competitions, including every branch of athletics and sporting contests, will be held.

State and national championships open to scholastic, collegiate and A. A. U. athletes will be featured. Baseball, football, boxing, wrestling, rowing, bicycling, tennis, golf, gymnastics, yachting, bowling hockey, basketball, shooting, swimming, handball and fencing have all been allotted dates in the extensive schedule.

According to the present plans almost every governing athletic and sporting association will award its national championship contest to California clubs, to be held in or near San Francisco.

All championship events will be open to the world. No athletic competitions will be scheduled for women, with the possible exception of such sports as tennis and golf. Mr. Sullivan stated that among the projects in connection with the exposition athletics was the use of the fair grounds for spring training by the big league clubs, and one game between world's championship contenders.

Look for Morning Games.

If baseball leagues continue to sprout, morning games will be the proper thing among our best fans.

For Unpleasant Odors.

Burnt coffee will free the house from cooking odors. So will a smouldering piece of string. A handful of lavender flowers in a bowl with lemon peel covered with boiling water imparts a gentle fragrance to an entire apartment.

Cellar Champion.

A seven-year-old boy, coming from school one day, informed his mother that half his class had been promoted. His mother asked him whether he had been one of the number. "No," said he, "and I'm glad I'm not, 'cause I'm the smartest one left."

EDDYITE LECTURE WELL ATTENDED

Attempt to Bar Christian Scientists From Y. M. C. A. Apparently Boosted the Attendance—Prof. Michael Introduced the Speaker.

Probably on account of the publicity and discussion brought about by the attempt to bar the Christian Scientists from Y. M. C. A. Hall, an audience of unusual size listened to the lecture on Christian Science Monday evening, the hall being about three-fourths filled. The lecturer, Clarence W. Chadwick, C. S. B., a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, was introduced by Prof. Myron J. Michael, a member of the consistory of the First Reformed Church. His lecture briefly summarized, was as follows:

The belief that consciousness is both good and evil has been the seeming cause of untold suffering and torment to the human race.

Christian Science defines real consciousness as the one infinite intelligence or mind which is God, good. "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind," involves a mental process of separation of right and wrong thought.

Right thoughts or ideas in Christian Science are emanations of the one divine mind or intelligence. Wrong thoughts are beliefs only.

The Christ, Truth, is the true or spiritual idea of God, a divine activity or influence which operates mentally to destroy all belief in an evil consciousness. It is the only remedy for both sin and disease.

Mary Baker Eddy is the discoverer and founder of Christian Science. Her genuine nobility of character, her intensely religious nature, and her unbounded love for God and humanity, made her one of the world's greatest of modern religious leaders and teachers. Christian Science did not originate in Mrs. Eddy's human mind. It was the Christ idea of the oneness and allness of divine mind that found expression in her purified mentality. The revelation of the spiritual idea to Mrs. Eddy's consciousness is the greatest mental phenomenon that could ever be experienced by a human being. It is "the resurrection and the life" to all who love God and keep His commandments.

The Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," is the natural and logical outcome of Mrs. Eddy's unselfed devotion and fidelity to the spiritual idea.

OUR BIG COUNTRY.

One Season When the Sun Never Sets on the Stars and Stripes.

There is only one flag that the sun never sets on—the British. But the American flag is a close second, for the sun during half the year never sets on it either. That is to say, these two are the only flags that the sun is continuously shining over, no matter what his position in the heavens—the one all the year round and the other during exactly half the year, from March 22 to Sept. 22.

Of course it is true that on no day at all during the year can the sun be seen from any two points of continental United States at all times during a period of twenty-four hours. But the United States naval observatory has made careful calculations which by including Alaska, Porto Rico and the Philippines show that between the spring and fall equinoxes the sun never ceases to shine in the eyes of the American eagle.

Perhaps nothing could make us realize how great a nation our expanded country is better than this simple astronomical fact. Moreover, within these two dates there are also several other pairs of eastern and western extreme points where the same condition obtains, though for much shorter times.

It is not generally known, but the easternmost point in the United States and its island possessions is in the island of Porto Rico—longitude 65 degrees 12 minutes west, latitude 18 degrees 20 minutes north. The westernmost point is in Balobe island, in the Philippines—longitude 116 degrees 40 minutes east, latitude 8 degrees 0 minutes north. When the sun is at what the calendar makers call "north declination" of 0 degrees 19 minutes—that is to say, on March 22 and on Sept. 22—it rises in Porto Rico at exactly the same time that it sets in the island of Balobe. Between these two dates during the winter months the sun does set on the United States, and during the remainder of the year, the summer months, it does not.—Exchange.

The Power of Advertising.

The power of advertising is told by a manager of the toilet department of a large New York department store. "We have six different makes of one toilet article," he said, "and they are so near alike in quality that even experts can't tell the difference between them, yet we sell as much of one as we do of all the others together, just because the manufacturer is everlastingly advertising it. The other five sell in proportion to the amount of advertising given to them. If there is any difference in quality it is in favor of the poorest seller."—New York Herald.

As to Quotations.

How many persons can unhesitatingly name the source of the familiar quotations? Many a man goes through life without reading a single play of Shakespeare, but probably no English speaking man goes through life without quoting him. If he sneers at "a woman's reason," he quotes Shakespeare; if he refers to "a trick worth two of that," he quotes Shakespeare again.

Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" is not a popular work, but one line of it—"Ask me no questions, and I will tell you no lies"—is known and used by everybody.

Exit Common Informer.

It was not always a good thing to be a common informer. One remembers the instance of an act that was passed making the penalty for a certain offense a fine of £500—half to go to the informer. In committee, imprisonment for two years was substituted for the fine, but the rest of the clause was allowed to stand. In consequence this part of the act became practically a dead letter, no common informer being desirous of securing his just and legal due.—London Chronicle.

Two of a Kind.

"Come, come," cried the brusque and hustling real estate man, "why do you pay rent when you might own a home?"

"I—I don't pay rent," replied the startling stranger.

"Then you own a home?"

"N-no."

"That's strange. May I ask your business?"

"I'm a real estate dealer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Voice of Experience.

"I can't understand why married couples ever have a disagreement," she said. "I don't see why those matters can't be so adjusted that there will be no friction. Now, my husband and I understand each other thoroughly."

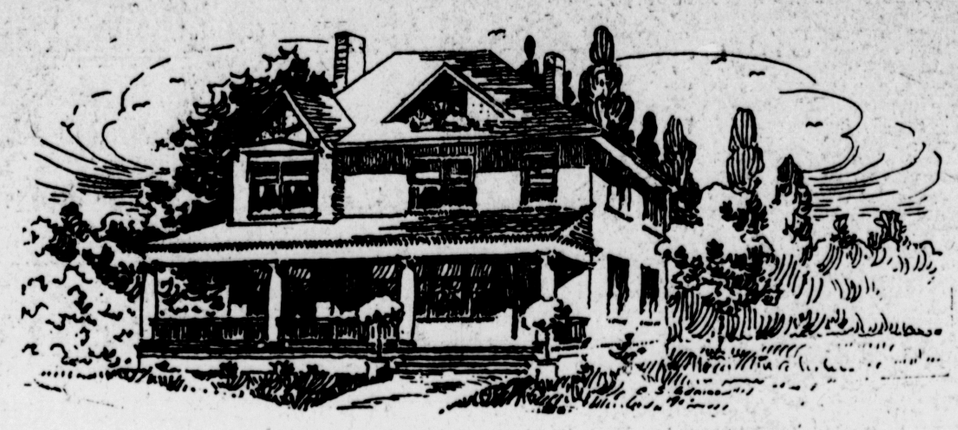

"Indeed!" he replied. "How long have you been married?"

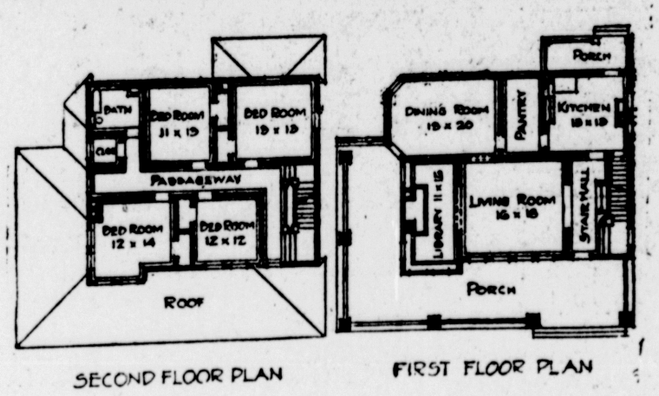

"Nearly three days."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Helpful Husband.

Newly-Wedded Husband (fresh from the altar)—"Excuse me taking the liberty, sir, but do you happen to know of any place where my wife could get a little charring to do?"—Punch.

Tentative programs for national and international athletics in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915 have been announced by Director of Athletics James E. Sullivan. The schedule of sports covers a period from February 20 to December 4, during which time more than 80 competitions, including every branch of athletics and sporting contests, will be held.

State and national championships open to scholastic, collegiate and A. A. U. athletes will be featured. Baseball, football, boxing, wrestling, rowing, bicycling, tennis, golf, gymnastics, yachting, bowling hockey, basketball, shooting, swimming, handball and fencing have all been allotted dates in the extensive schedule.

According to the present plans almost every governing athletic and sporting association will award its national championship contest to California clubs, to be held in or near San Francisco.

All championship events will be open to the world. No athletic competitions will be scheduled for women, with the possible exception of such sports as tennis and golf. Mr. Sullivan stated that among the projects in connection with the exposition athletics was the use of the fair grounds for spring training by the big league clubs, and one game between world's championship contenders.

Look for Morning Games.

If baseball leagues continue to sprout, morning games will be the proper thing among our best fans.

For Unpleasant Odors.

Burnt coffee will free the house from cooking odors. So will a smouldering piece of string. A handful of lavender flowers in a bowl with lemon peel covered with boiling water imparts a gentle fragrance to an entire apartment.

Cellar Champion.

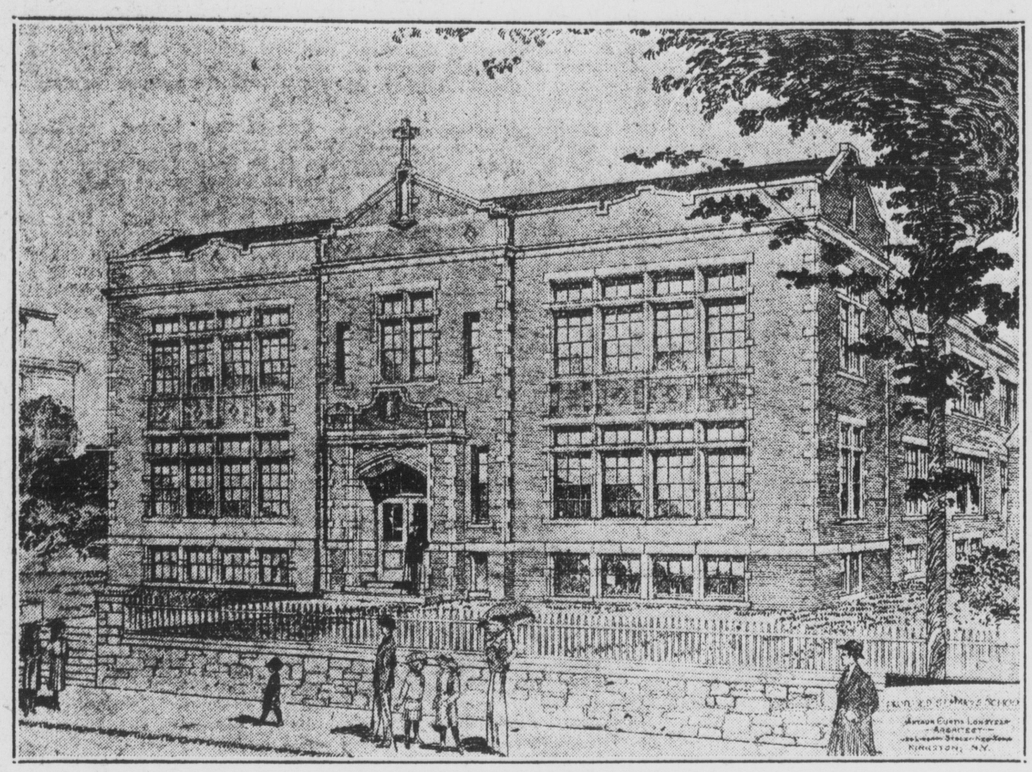

A seven-year-old boy, coming from school one day, informed his mother that half his class had been promoted. His mother asked him whether he had been one of the number. "No," said he, "and I'm glad I'm not, 'cause I'm the smartest one left."

GRAND OPENING OF NEW SCHOOL HALL

The new school hall of St. Mary's Church was opened with a reception and concert on Monday evening and was well filled by members of the parish and friends. A fine musical program was rendered, music being furnished by Muller's orchestra. William F. Kelly sang "Some Day" in his usual capable way and Miss Mauterstock gave a trio of recitations in her inimitable manner. Miss Helen Cullotan and Mrs. James V. Halloran gave a piano and violin duet, which was highly appreciated. Henry Sullivan then gave a vocal solo and Jacob Mollott followed with a 'cello solo. Other numbers which brought forth hearty applause were a solo by Miss Katherine Dugan, recitation by Miss Mauterstock and a vocal solo by Mrs. William Leary.

After the concert Muller's orchestra furnished music for dancing until a late hour and the school building was inspected by many who were present. The building is a fine one and built of Harvard brick, two stories in height, with Indiana limestone trimming. There are ten class rooms, all well lighted and ventilated. Sanitary toilets for males and females and private retiring rooms for the teachers, cloak rooms and others go to make it one of the most modern schools in the state.

There is also a moving picture gallery in connection with the hall. A recreation hall 77x25 feet in dimensions will also prove a boon for the youngsters. The main hall will seat 800 and the stage will accommodate a large production. At the sides are dressing rooms. A feature is a modern kitchen outfit to prepare suppers, etc. Throughout the building is finished in quartered oak. Meeting rooms are also provided for the church societies. Father Hickey was very proud of the new school and he and the parish have good reason to feel that way.

BOY PICKED UP A LIVE WIRE

Richard Wade, a young Ponckhockie lad, came near being electrocuted at Kingston Point Park on Monday morning when he picked up a live wire. Electricians had been fixing wires preparatory to opening the park for the summer and in some manner one of the wires broke. With another boy young Wade was playing around the park and innocently picked up a live one. He was knocked unconscious and his companion, armed with a stick, pried the wire loose from his hands and summoned the superintendent, John Q. Smith, who gave first aid until the arrival of Dr. A. A. Stern. Young Wade was taken to the Kingston City Hospital where he was quickly revived and was about during the afternoon, his only injury being a badly burned hand. He got a severe jolt and it seems almost a miracle that he was not killed.

COURTS SEND KILLIFER TO PHILLIES.

(Catcher Bill Killifer.)

Killifer, whose services have been awarded to the Philadelphia National League team, under a suit brought by the Federal League to restrain him from playing with the Q makers, is a backstop of rare merit and is believed by many to be crowding the leaders in his class for superiority. In spite of the fact that the Feds lost Killifer they consider that they won a big victory when Judge Sessions in handing down his decision declared the famous reserve clause in baseball contracts invalid. This leaves the players of all leagues free to sign with whatever club they please after the contracts at present in force expire.

Annual Reception, Prize Drill and Dance a Brilliant Affair.

Saugerties, April 14.—The annual reception, dance and prize drill of St. Mary's Commandery, No. 145, Knights of St. John, held in Columbus Hall, Monday evening was an event that will long be remembered for the pleasant and enjoyable entertainment provided. The hall was handsomely decorated with the national colors. The reception committee was active and pleasant in receiving the large number that filled the hall to its capacity. Among the out of town guests were:

Captain William Dobler, First Lieutenant E. J. Kopser, Second Lieutenant Joseph Ehleider, Hugh Keenan, A. Lescsack, John Lescsack, Henry Losee, M. Heller, A. L. Wermuth, Adolph Hock, J. Stickler, L. Neuwith, E. Herles, Ex-Captain L. Herles, W. Heidle and George Slater all Knights of St. John Commandery, No. 52, of Poughkeepsie. Other noted guest were: Colonel H. D. Laflin, Father E. T. Harty and members of the J. R. Tappan, No. 215, G. A. R.

St. Mary's Commandery was in charge of Captain William R. Johnson, the military evolutions, discipline and general knowledge of military tactics displayed by the commandery, reflected to the ability of Captain Johnson. The drill was for the purpose of knowing the best drilled member of the commandery. After a weeding out process by the judges, Leonard Sinnott was awarded the prize of five dollars in gold for the best drilled member in St. Mary's Commandery. The presentation was made by Father Talbot, pastor of St. Mary's Church, who in a happy vein acknowledged himself as knowing little about military tactics outside of spiritual war fare, paid a fine tribute to Captain Johnson and his Lieutenants, also to the members of the commandery for their proficency and the judges for their impartiality. Father Talbot in the course of his remarks referred to a prize drill held in Poughkeepsie, his native city, some years ago participated in by Saugerties firemen ventured to say that some of the members of St. Mary's Commandery were sons of the firemen who then attracted his attention, never expecting that the warm spot in his heart for his native city would be warmer for the Saugerties boys. The judges were: Captain William Dobler, First Lieutenant E. J. Kopser, Second Lieutenant Joseph Ehleider of Poughkeepsie Commandery, No. 52, Knights of St. John. At the conclusion of the prize drill dancing was enjoyed. The music was excellent and was under the direction of Professor Powers.

SOME CARPENTERS STILL AT WORK

There is said to be dissension among the members of the carpenters' union who went out on strike on Monday over the fact that the only union carpenters in the city who did not strike were those employed by Contractor Elmer Swart, who continued at work on a few small jobs that Mr. Swart had under way. The members of the union were of the opinion, it is said, that as long as the union had ordered a general strike every member should have dropped his tools and stopped work. The reason the carpenters employed by Mr. Swart did not strike was due to the fact that satisfactory arrangements had been made.

A meeting of the union will be held this evening and undoubtedly the matter will come up for discussion and action.

As told in The Freeman on Monday, the strike was caused by the union refusing to accept the compromise offered by the contractors of two and one-half cents an hour increase in wages to start July 1 unless the increase dated from April 1, which the contractors refused to agree to. The original demand of the union was for an increase in wages of five cents an hour, making their pay 45 cents an hour.

All of the carpenters who struck on Monday are still out.

Ministers and Christian Science.

At the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association, held on Monday, April 13, at the Y. M. C. A., the speaker was the Rev. R. A. Waite, who spoke on "The Church and the Boy." The talk was exceedingly helpful as Mr. Waite has had extensive experience with boys. At the business session of the meeting the following resolution was adopted:

"Believing that Christian Science is wrong in principle and pernicious in practice, being both un-Christian and anti-Christian, we trust that the Christian people who have vested interests in the Young Men's Christian Association property may be assured of a policy for the future whereby no sects which advocate doctrines inconsistent or incompatible with Evangelical Christian truth may be assisted in their propaganda by the use of any part of the property."

Demonstration in First Aid.

Dr. M. J. Shields, of the American Red Cross Society, gave a talk and demonstration on "First Aid to the Injured" at the Henry street office of the New York Telephone Company on Monday. About sixty persons were present, including some of the employes of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, who has been invited. Dr. Shields gave demonstrations on how to treat cuts, burns, bruises, how to apply compresses and to give first aid for fractures, how to revive a person out of a faint and also to dislodge a person who had been caught by a live wire. The lecture was very instructive and the speaker was listened to with closest attention by the audience.

Fire in Straw.

A small blaze in the rear of 37 Lucas avenue caused a still alarm of fire to be sent in on Monday evening about 8 o'clock and while the firemen were responding some one turned in an alarm from box 95. When the firemen reached the scene they found that the blaze had been extinguished with a pail of water. The cause of the fire was some one setting fire to a pile of straw that lay outside the barn. The fire burned a small hole in the foundation of the barn but the damage was slight. Who set the straw on fire is not known.

The Gardner Loses a Trip.

When the steamer E. B. Gardner was off Brigham's brickyard near East Kingston on Monday afternoon her propellor caught in a piece of wire cable. Captain Mabie telephoned to Rondout and the tug W. S. Earl brought the steamer to Hiltebrant's drydock where the cable was pulled out. On account of the accident it was impossible to make the last afternoon trip.

Resurfacing Saugerties Road.

Joseph Walker of New Paltz, who was awarded the contract for resurfacing the Saugerties-Glenerie road, has a force of men at work in that vicinity getting ready to begin active operations on the contract. A large number of Italian laborers have been housed in that vicinity.

New Concrete Walk.

The bluestone flagging about the new St. Mary's school is being torn up and Contractor Emerick has begun laying an eleven feet wide concrete sidewalk on the Broadway and McEntee street sides of the building. There will be over six hundred running feet of concrete walk.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, April 14.—Moderate improvement was shown in the stock market at the opening today with the favorite international shares responding in some degree to advices in the London Exchange. Candian Pacific was a strong feature advancing 5/8 and at the end of fifteen minutes had augmented this gain slightly. United States Steel Common which was freely supplied in London sold down in the initial trading in the local market. However after beginning ¼ lower it rallied and recovered. Gains of around ½ were scored by Lehigh Valley, Reading and Union Pacific. Southern Pacific was offered generously yielding ½ in consequence. Great Northern preferred was also offered at its low level of yesterday. Pressure was directed against the Rock Island shares, especially the four per cent bonds which were lower than for some time. Amalgamated Copper began ¼ lower then recovered and made a net gain. Fractional declines were noted in Utah Copper, B. F. Goodrich, New York Central and Northern Pacific. New York, New Haven and Hartford gained ¼. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were narrow.

Noon—In the late forenoon nearly all the leading issues were being offered at concessions, and for the first time in several months liquidation was in evidence. United States Steel common was forced down to 58½ against 59¼ at the opening. Union Pacific declined 7/8 and Reading dropped to 163¾. Amalgamated Copper lost 1 point to 74. Texas Company fell 3½ and Great Northern Ore, ¾. Call money loaning at 1¾ per cent.

2:30 p. m.—The prices of nearly all stocks in the last hour were under their opening quotations. Amalgamated Copper held around 74 for the loss of a point from early morning and the same amount of loss was sustained by Lehigh Valley. Union Pacific sold at 156½ against 157⅝ at the close Monday. Chino Copper sold down for a net loss of one point on the day. The tone was heavy.

The market closed dull. Governments unchanged; other bonds steady.

Quotations furnished by John D. Kling, Broadway and Strand, Kingston, N. Y., Tel. 93. Correspondent of C. H. Van Buren & Company, members of Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York.

Monday Club.

The Monday Club met at the home of Mrs. M. J. Michael this week, and the paper for the day on "Woman and Law" was read by Mrs. Michael. Being unable to prepare a paper on this subject as she had expected to do, Mrs. Michael read a most interesting paper written by Miss Jackson, lawyer and member of the Catskill Monday Club. The paper showed how the early laws of the country were founded on the old English law, and that for a considerable period, woman, had in the eyes of the law, practically no personal identity, but was simply a part of her husband. Little by little conditions have improved up to the present time when woman is receiving more and more recognition. Various laws were described and their good or bad effect noted. Much interest was manifested in the finely presented paper. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Kenyon, when Mrs. William Davis will read her paper on "Artists of the Present Day."

MEXICAN AFFAIR HAS GROWN SERIOUS

Much Mystery Regarding Report Received From Admiral Mayo—The Salute to the Flag Has Not Been Given.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—No secret was made in official circles today of the fact that the Mexican situation is regarded as serious. It was admitted that relations with the southern republic were at the breaking point as a result of the refusal of the Mexican Federals at Tampico to comply with the demand that the United States flag be saluted.

President Wilson himself took charge of the situation and conferred at length with Special Envoy John Lind, Secretary of State Bryan and Solicitor Cone Johnson of the state department.

This conference was held before the cabinet meeting and delayed the session of the president's advisers. All officials refrained from dicussing the situation but there was no indication that the president would alter his determination to enforce Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for the salute. It was intimated that if the Mexican government did not comply with this demand the American commander at Tampico would be instructed to take any steps that he regarded as necessary.

Secretary of War Garrison today ordered all quartermasters general to obtain full information as to all commercial ships and flat cars that would be available to the government should a rapid movement of troops be necessary.

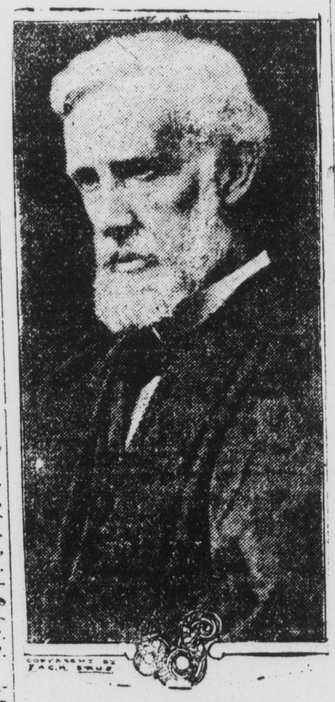

"It is the intention of the war department," said Secretary Garrison, "to keep itself well informed as to the location of all railroad equipment and ships which may be needed to move troops at a moment's notice. The government intends always to be prepared for such action as may be necessary and it is the duty of this department to move with as little loss of time as possible."

Department officials stated that there are evidences that the army is preparing for offensive movements toward Mexico and while none of the higher officers would discuss the present situation or what it may lead to, it is generally admitted that the tension is more strained than at any time during the Mexican situation.

The strict embargo on Mexican news which was established by Secretay Bryan on Monday continued today. Acting Secretary of the Navy Blue, conferred with Secretary Bryan and Mr. Lind following the White House meeting but neither Mr. Lind nor the others in the conferences would discuss the matter. Mr. Lind stated that the arrest of American marines at Tampco is puzzling to him. Marines have been going ashore at both Vera Cruz and Tampico ever since the American fleet was sent down there. They always went unarmed and have never been disturbed before. The reason for their arrest has not yet been disclosed he said:

Admiral Blue admitted that he had received a report from Rear Admiral Mayo concerning the situation at Tampico and the present status of the salute but declined to make any portion of this report public.

"The salute has not been fired," was all the acting secretary of the navy would say.

McADOO DISPLAYS SYMPTOMS OF PRESIDNENTITIS.

William G. McAdoo.

Washington, April 10.—Is William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury and fiance of Miss Eleanor Wilson, grooming himself for the presidential nomination? This question is being asked quite frequently by those who witnessed a little incident in which the secretary was the principal actor. Babies from the local Florence Crittenden Home attracted the attention of a number of Washington notables and caused quite a crowd to assemble in front of an F. street shop. Secretary McAdoo was one of those who stopped to watch the antics of the little cherubs, but instead of merely gaping he circulated among the youngsters, distributing coins, smiles, kind words and chucks under chins. This is certainly the stereotyped campaign material of every presidential candidate.

TOO MUCH MEAT CAUSE OF CANCER, SAYS DR. MAYO.

(Dr. William J. Mayo.

New York, April 13.—Considerable discussion has ensued among members of the medical profession since Dr. William J. Mayor, president of the American Surgical Association, in his opening address at the convention now in progress at the Hotel Astor, declared that a majority of the cases of cancer is directly due to the eating of too much meat. Dr. Mayor said that overeating and poor cooking are the principal causes of cancer.

Euchre at High Falls.

A euchre and dance will be held at Quick's Hotel, High Falls, on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Catholic Church.

SOME CARPENTERS STILL AT WORK

There is said to be dissension among the members of the carpenters' union who went out on strike on Monday over the fact that the only union carpenters in the city who did not strike were those employed by Contractor Elmer Swart, who continued at work on a few small jobs that Mr. Swart had under way. The members of the union were of the opinion, it is said, that as long as the union had ordered a general strike every member should have dropped his tools and stopped work. The reason the carpenters employed by Mr. Swart did not strike was due to the fact that satisfactory arrangements had been made.

A meeting of the union will be held this evening and undoubtedly the matter will come up for discussion and action.

As told in The Freeman on Monday, the strike was caused by the union refusing to accept the compromise offered by the contractors of two and one-half cents an hour increase in wages to start July 1 unless the increase dated from April 1, which the contractors refused to agree to. The original demand of the union was for an increase in wages of five cents an hour, making their pay 45 cents an hour.

All of the carpenters who struck on Monday are still out.

Ministers and Christian Science.

At the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association, held on Monday, April 13, at the Y. M. C. A., the speaker was the Rev. R. A. Waite, who spoke on "The Church and the Boy." The talk was exceedingly helpful as Mr. Waite has had extensive experience with boys. At the business session of the meeting the following resolution was adopted:

"Believing that Christian Science is wrong in principle and pernicious in practice, being both un-Christian and anti-Christian, we trust that the Christian people who have vested interests in the Young Men's Christian Association property may be assured of a policy for the future whereby no sects which advocate doctrines inconsistent or incompatible with Evangelical Christian truth may be assisted in their propaganda by the use of any part of the property."

Demonstration in First Aid.

Dr. M. J. Shields, of the American Red Cross Society, gave a talk and demonstration on "First Aid to the Injured" at the Henry street office of the New York Telephone Company on Monday. About sixty persons were present, including some of the employes of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, who has been invited. Dr. Shields gave demonstrations on how to treat cuts, burns, bruises, how to apply compresses and to give first aid for fractures, how to prime a motor out of a flint and also to dislodge a person who had been caught by a live wire. The lecture was very instructive and the speaker was listened to with closest attention by the audience.

Fire in Straw.

A small blaze in the rear of 37 Lucas avenue caused a still alarm of fire to be sent in on Monday evening about 8 o'clock and while the firemen were responding some one turned in an alarm from box 95. When the firemen reached the scene they found that the blaze had been extinguished with a pail of water. The cause of the fire was some one setting fire to a pile of straw that lay outside the barn. The fire burned a small hole in the foundation of the barn but the damage was slight. Who set the straw on fire is not known.

The Gardner Loses a Trip.

When the steamer E. B. Gardner was off Brigham's brickyard near East Kingston on Monday afternoon her propellor caught in a piece of wire cable. Captain Mabie telephoned to Rondout and the tug W. S. Earl brought the steamer to Hiltebrant's drydock where the cable was pulled out. On account of the accident it was impossible to make the last afternoon trip.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, April 14.—Moderate improvement was shown in the stock market at the opening today with the favorite international shares responding in some degree to advices in the London Exchange. Candian Pacific was a strong feature advancing ⅝ and at the end of fifteen minutes had augmented this gain slightly. United States Steel Common which was freely supplied in London sold down in the initial trading in the local market. However after beginning ¼ lower it rallied and recovered. Gains of around ½ were scored by Lehigh Valley, Reading and Union Pacific. Southern Pacific was offered generously yielding ½ in consequence. Great Northern preferred was also offered at its low level of yesterday. Pressure was directed against the Rock Island shares, especially the four per cent bonds which were lower than for some time. Amalgamated Copper began ¼ lower then recovered and made a net gain. Fractional declines were noted in Utah Copper, B. F. Goodrich, New York Central and Northern Pacific. New York, New Haven and Hartford gained ¼. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were narrow.

Noon—In the late forenoon nearly all the leading issues were being offered at concessions, and for the first time in several months liquidation was in evidence. United States Steel common was forced down to 58½ against 59¼ at the opening. Union Pacific declined ⅞ and Reading dropped to 163¾. Amalgamated Copper lost 1 point to 74. Texas Company fell 3½ and Great Northern Ore, ¾. Call money loaning at 1¾ per cent.

2:30 p. m.—The prices of nearly all stocks in the last hour were under their opening quotations. Amalgamated Copper held around 74 for the loss of a point from early morning and the same amount of loss was sustained by Lehigh Valley. Union Pacific sold at 156½ against 157⅝ at the close Monday. Chino Copper sold down for a net loss of one point on the day. The tone was heavy.

The market closed dull. Governments unchanged; other bonds steady.

Being unable to prepare a paper on this subject as she had expected to do, Mrs. Michael read a most interesting paper written by Miss Jackson, lawyer and member of the Catskill Monday Club. The paper showed how the early laws of the country were founded on the old English law, and that for a considerable period, woman, had in the eyes of the law, practically no personal identity, but was simply a part of her husband. Little by little conditions have improved up to the present time when woman is receiving more and more recognition. Various laws were described and their good or bad effect noted. Much interest was manifested in the finely presented paper. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Kenyon, when Mrs. William Davis will read her paper on "Artists of the Present Day."

MEXICAN AFFAIR HAS GROWN SERIOUS

Much Mystery Regarding Report Received From Admiral Mayo—The Salute to the Flag Has Not Been Given.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—No secret was made in official circles today of the fact that the Mexican situation is regarded as serious. It was admitted that relations with the southern republic were at the breaking point as a result of the refusal of the Mexican Federals at Tampico to comply with the demand that the United States flag be saluted.

President Wilson himself took charge of the situation and conferred at length with Special Envoy John Lind, Secretary of State Bryan and Solicitor Cone Johnson of the state department.

This conference was held before the cabinet meeting and delayed the session of the president's advisers. All officials refrained from dicussing the situation but there was no indication that the president would alter his determination to enforce Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for the salute. It was intimated that if the Mexican government did not comply with this demand the American commander at Tampico would be instructed to take any steps that he regarded as necessary.

Secretary of War Garrison today ordered all quartermasters general to obtain full information as to all commercial ships and flat cars that would be available to the government should a rapid movement of troops be necessary.

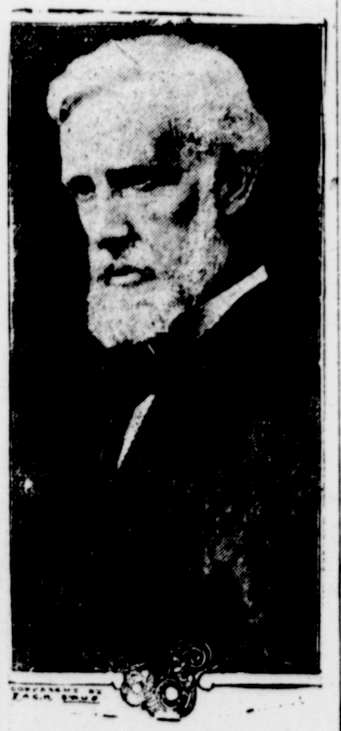

"It is the intention of the war department," said Secretary Garrison, "to keep itself well informed as to the location of all railroad equipment and ships which may be needed to move troops at a moment's notice. The government intends always to be prepared for such action as may be necessary and it is the duty of this department to move with as little loss of time as possible."

Department officials stated that there are evidences that the army is preparing for offensive movements toward Mexico and while none of the higher officers would discuss the present situation or what it may lead to, it is generally admitted that the tension is more strained than at any time during the Mexican situation.

The strict embargo on Mexican news which was established by Secretay Bryan on Monday continued today. Acting Secretary of the Navy Blue, conferred with Secretary Bryan and Mr. Lind following the White House meeting but neither Mr. Lind nor the others in the conferences would discuss the matter. Mr. Lind stated that the arrest of American marines at Tampco is puzzling to him. Marines have been going ashore at both Vera Cruz and Tampico ever since the American fleet was sent down there. They always went unarmed and have never been disturbed before. The reason for their arrest has not yet been disclosed he said:

Admiral Blue admitted that he had received a report from Rear Admiral Mayo concerning the situation at Tampico and the present status of the salute but declined to make any portion of this report public.

"The salute has not been fired," was all the acting secretary of the navy would say.

McADOO DISPLAYS SYMPTOMS OF PRESIDNENTITIS.

William G. McAdoo.

Washington, April 10.—Is William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury and fiance of Miss Eleanor Wilson, grooming himself for the presidential nomination? This question is being asked quite frequently by those who witnessed a little incident in which the secretary was the principal actor. Babies from the local Florence Crittenden Home attracted the attention of a number of Washington notables and caused quite a crowd to assemble in front of an F. street shop. Secretary McAdoo was one of those who stopped to watch the antics of the little cherubs, but instead of merely gaping he circulated among the youngsters, distributing coins, smiles, kind words and chucks under chins. This is certainly the stereotyped campaign material of every presidential candidate.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET A SUCCESS

The father and son banquet held by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening was a big success and was attended by 130 boys and their fathers. The banquet was served by fifteen of the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the piece de resistance was the chicken pie prepared by "Gus" Bonesteel. During the evening an orchestra rendered a fine musical program and between courses the boys led by George D. Beckwith, boys' work secretary, sang a number of Kingston songs. Such a success was the banquet that a number of requests were made that it be repeated next year.

After the good things had been placed where they would do the most good A. C. Connelly a member of the boys' work committee presided as toastmaster and in a witty manner introduced the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker was S. E. Eighmey, chairman of the boys' work committee, who spoke on "Boys' Opportunities." Mr. Eighmey called the attention of his nearers to the fine opportunities offered by the boys' department for boys, the reading rooms, the debate club, the physical training and the development of the social side of a boy's character. Never before in the history of the city had a boy a better opportunity than at the present time.

John Rowland, vice president of the Y. M. C. A. Glee Club, was the next speaker and spoke on "Boys' Ambitions." A boy's ambition began to loom up when he entered high school and began wearing his first pair of trowsers and he began to seriously think of what life had to offer. The idea of girls also began to be thought of and the boy began to realize that girls had ceased to be a nuisance and were worthy of more interest and attention than he had bestowed upon them during the knee pants period of his life. Mr. Rowland was very witty and his address was greeted with applause.

He was followed by Professor Moulton of Kingston Academy, who spoke on "The Boy and the School." Professor Moulton in a clear and concise manner outlined the fact that a boy to be a success needed not only a physical training but also a mental training and that the school played an important part in the boy's after life. With a good sound education and a clean body a boy was better fitted to handle the large affairs of life.

Mayor Canfield spoke on "The Boy and the City." He said that the city was just the same as the thoughts and actions of the people in the city, and boys were being trained to later handle the city. The success of any city depended upon the character of the men who were at the head of its affairs. He said that the Y. M. C. A. was the physical, mental and moral center of the city, and the training a boy received in the association was sure to show its effect for good later in life.

The last speaker of the evening was International Secretary R. A. Waite, who took as his topic "Father and Son." He urged a closer relationship between the boy and his father. The relationship that existed between a boy and his father when the lad was five years old should exist when the boy reaches the age of eighteen. A father should not neglect his son for his business but should make it a point to become chummy with his son and in that way a boy would retain his respect for his father. A father should make it a point to retain the confidence of his son and should in every way endeavor to have the boy as he grew older confide his troubles and perplexities with his father. Every boy was sure to meet temptations in life but if his father was chummy with him the father would be in a better position to guide his boy through the trials and pitfalls that line the path to young manhood.

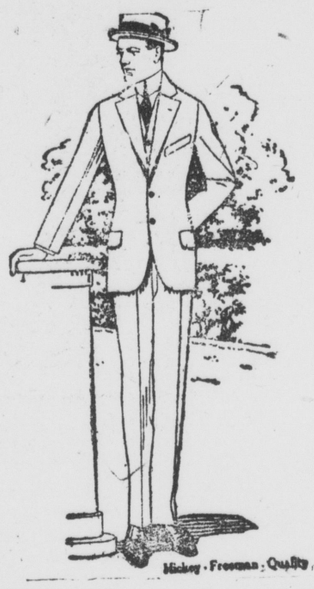

All of the speakers were very earnest and a number of important points were brought out in their addresses.

Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

Large congregations attended the Easter services at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday. The Easter music was exceptionally fine and was rendered by a choir of ten voices under the efficient leadership of the choir director, Mrs. Asenath Hayes. Anthems, solo, duet and quartet pieces were all splendidly sung. Three musical instruments were used, organ, piano and violin, with excellent violin solos by Mr. Waelde. At the morning service the pastor preached on the topic, "The Resurrection as an Inward Life," from the text John 11-25. At the evening service the exercises were under the auspices of the Bible school, assisted by the choir. The program took the form of a story entitled, "Love Triumphant," which was read by Dr. Ernest K. Lee. This story was interrupted at intervals by songs rendered by the choir and the school. The singing of the Bible school showed the careful training by the superintendent, Dr. C. F. Banker. The whole rendering of the story, with reading and singing alternating, was most effective. The Easter musical program will be repeated next Sunday, but at different services.

"I See by the Paper Where:"

Not the English of Lindley Murray perhaps, but nevertheless a very expressive phrase which we hear every day.

There is food for thought in it for every one who has an appeal to make to the great purchasing public.

Why not make that "WHERE" apply to your goods or your store?

There is no appeal so direct nor one which brings such immediate results as that made through the columns of a live daily newspaper like The Freeman.

The newspaper is the intimate friend of the family. People turn to it for guidance, and naturally they look to it for advice when they have shopping to do.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET A SUCCESS

The father and son banquet held by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening was a big success and was attended by 130 boys and their fathers. The banquet was served by fifteen of the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the piece de resistance was the chicken pie prepared by "Gus" Bonesteel. During the evening an orchestra rendered a fine musical program and between courses the boys led by George D. Beckwith, boys' work secretary, sang a number of Kingston songs. Such a success was the banquet that a number of requests were made that it be repeated next year.

After the good things had been placed where they would do the most good A. C. Connelly a member of the boys' work committee presided as toastmaster and in a witty manner introduced the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker was S. E. Eighmey, chairman of the boys' work committee, who spoke on "Boys' Opportunities." Mr. Eighmey called the attention of his hearers to the fine opportunities offered by the boys' department for boys, the reading rooms, the debate club, the physical training and the development of the social side of a boy's character. Never before in the history of the city had a boy a better opportunity than at the present time.

John Rowland, vice president of the Y. M. C. A. Glee Club, was the next speaker and spoke on "Boys' Ambitions." A boy's ambition began to loom up when he entered high school and began wearing his first pair of trowsers and he began to seriously think of what life had to offer. The idea of girls also began to be thought of and the boy began to realize that girls had ceased to be a nuisance and were worthy of more interest and attention than he had bestowed upon them during the knee pants period of his life. Mr. Rowland was very witty and his address was greeted with applause.

He was followed by Professor Moulton of Kingston Academy, who spoke on "The Boy and the School." Professor Moulton in a clear and concise manner outlined the fact that a boy to be a success needed not only a physical training but also a mental training and that the school played an important part in the boy's after life. With a good sound education and a clean body a boy was better fitted to handle the large affairs of life.

Mayor Canfield spoke on "The Boy and the City." He said that the city was just the same as the thoughts and actions of the people in the city, and boys were being trained to later handle the city. The success of any city depended upon the character of the men who were at the head of its affairs. He said that the Y. M. C. A. was the physical, mental and moral center of the city, and the training a boy received in the association was sure to show its effect for good later in life.

The last speaker of the evening was International Secretary R. A. Waite, who took as his topic "Father and Son." He urged a closer relationship between the boy and his father. The relationship that existed between a boy and his father when the lad was five years old should exist when the boy reaches the age of eighteen. DISEASED ANIMAL SOLD FOR FOOD

State Commissioner of Agriculture Investigating the Way Things were Done at Forst's Slaughter House—Dr. Smith Says the Carcass Was Condemned.

The Albany Argus says:

Calvin J. Huson, state commissioner of agriculture, Monday afternoon gave a hearing upon charges that the carcass of a bull killed by order of the state at Kingston and found to be tubercular nad been sold in Poughkeepsie. Two witnesses, the veterinary who superintended the slaughter of the animal, and the dealer in beef, who sold the carcass, were examined. The hearing was continued to allow Commissioner Huson to ascertain further facts in the case.

Pending a decision in the case, Commissioner Huson issued specific orders to veterinary surgeons employed by the state that they must personally see that every animal killed and found to be unfit for food is destroyed or so treated as to make it impossible that it be sold for food; that they must keep stamps supplied by the department for marking carcasses in their personal custody and that no more animals be slaughtered at the Kingston plant.

"This order," said Commissioner Huson Monday night, "is specific in its terms. The public looks to us for the enforcement of the law. This order contains nothing that is not now the duty of the veterinarians, but if they have become lax or careless I propose to call their attention to their duty in such a way that there will be no excuse for their not attending to it hereafter.

"I propose to get whatever information I can get in regard to this particular transaction and to make such disposition of the matter as I believe will so safeguard the situation as to the future, that there never can be a repetition of the situation that has been disclosed in this instance.

"This inquiry demonstrates that some of our veterinarians have been careless, to say the least, in the slaughter and destruction of carcasses condemned. It is also apparent that the veterinarians have not taken proper care of the stamps. I am going to clean up this whole situation and that quickly."

Dr. W. J. Smith, employed by the state to superintend the killing of animals reacting to the tuberculin test, was the first witness examined by Commissioner Huson. Dr. Smith described the slaughter of 11 animals on March 12 last, among which was a bull afterwards sold for food.

According to Dr. Smith, this animal was branded as "condemned" in about 25 places. Under ordinary conditions, he said, the carcass would have been placed in a large tank and destroyed. In this instance, however, the carcass was left until the next day with several other carcasses, the tank being filled.

Dr. Smith admitted that during the winter he had kept the stamps supplied him by the state in a desk in the office at the slaughter house, and that it was possible for anyone to have abstracted the stamps and used them without his knowledge. He declared that such must have been the case in this instance, the "condemned" marks having been cut off and the "passed" marks substituted.

Max Forst, son of Jacob Forst, proprietor of the slaughter house, declared that the carcass of the animal was found by him in a cooler and bore the mark "passed." He sold the carcass in Poughkeepsie, he said, and did not know that it had been rejected because of the presence of tuberculosis until a few days ago, when a state inspector called upon him.

Forst seemed to think that Dr. Smith had made a mistake and himself branded the animal as "passed," although one stamp is oval and the other square in shape, and Dr. Smith declared it would have been impossible for him to have made such an error. Forst said that it was possible to cut off the stamps and sell a carcass as good meat.

Commissioner Huson will await the arrival of further information regarding the circumstances of the slaughter of the animal and he may examine some of the workmen in the Forst slaughter house before he makes a final disposition of the case. These charges became known to him only Monday morning and the investigation in the afternoon is in line with his policy to let no critisism of the department lie without immediate investigation.

GLASCO.

Glasco, April 14.—Rev. S. M. Cole, the newly appointed pastor of the Glasco M. E. Church, preached here for the first time on Easter morning, a very appropriate and instructive discourse. He expects to move here from Arkville during the present week. His family consists only of himself and wife.

The new clothing store of L. Plotnick is nearing completion, and will probably be open for business in less than a month.

A few nights ago exactly on the stroke of midnight the burglar alarm began to "burgle" on the front window of Henry Fuller's store. He and his wife were immediately aroused, knowing full well that the front of the store would be opened for business in a few seconds. Going to a front window on the second floor he fired his revolver, which brought two of his neighbors to the scene on the double quick. A hasty search of the premises both inside and outside revealed nothing, not even a footprint. The burglar had made a quick getaway. Not long ago a similar attempt was made to break into the store but was unsuccessful.

DISEASED ANIMAL SOLD FOR FOOD

State Commissioner of Agriculture Investigating the Way Things were Done at Forst's Slaughter House—Dr. Smith Says the Carcass Was Condemned.

The Albany Argus says:

Calvin J. Huson, state commissioner of agriculture, Monday afternoon gave a hearing upon charges that the carcass of a bull killed by order of the state at Kingston and found to be tubercular nad been sold in Poughkeepsie. Two witnesses, the veterinary who superintended the slaughter of the animal, and the dealer in beef, who sold the carcass, were examined. The hearing was continued to allow Commissioner Huson to ascertain further facts in the case.

Pending a decision in the case, Commissioner Huson issued specific orders to veterinary surgeons employed by the state that they must personally see that every animal killed and found to be unfit for food is destroyed or so treated as to make it impossible that it be sold for food; that they must keep stamps supplied by the department for marking carcasses in their personal custody and that no more animals be slaughtered at the Kingston plant.

"This order," said Commissioner Huson Monday night, "is specific in its terms. The public looks to us for the enforcement of the law. This order contains nothing that is not now the duty of the veterinarians, but if they have become lax or careless I propose to call their attention to their duty in such a way that there will be no excuse for their not attending to it hereafter.

"I propose to get whatever information I can get in regard to this particular transaction and to make such disposition of the matter as I believe will so safeguard the situation as to the future, that there never can be a repetition of the situation that has been disclosed in this instance.

"This inquiry demonstrates that some of our veterinarians have been careless, to say the least, in the slaughter and destruction of carcasses condemned. It is also apparent that the veterinarians have not taken proper care of the stamps. I am going to clean up this whole situation and that quickly."

Dr. W. J. Smith, employed by the state to superintend the killing of animals reacting to the tuberculin test, was the first witness examined by Commissioner Huson. Dr. Smith described the slaughter of 11 animals on March 12 last, among which was a bull afterwards sold for food.

According to Dr. Smith, this animal was branded as "condemned" in about 25 places. Under ordinary conditions, he said, the carcass would have been placed in a large tank and destroyed. In this instance, however, the carcass was left until the next day with several other carcasses, the tank being filled.

Dr. Smith admitted that during the winter he had kept the stamps supplied him by the state in a desk in the office at the slaughter house, and that it was possible for anyone to have abstracted the stamps and used them without his knowledge. He declared that such must have been the case in this instance, the "condemned" marks having been cut off and the "passed" marks substituted.

Max Forst, son of Jacob Forst, proprietor of the slaughter house, declared that the carcass of the animal was found by him in a cooler and bore the mark "passed." He sold the carcass in Poughkeepsie, he said, and did not know that it had been rejected because of the presence of tuberculosis until a few days ago, when a state inspector called upon him.

Forst seemed to think that Dr. Smith had made a mistake and himself branded the animal as "passed," although one stamp is oval and the other square in shape, and Dr. Smith declared it would have been impossible for him to have made such an error. Forst said that it was possible to cut off the stamps and sell a carcass as good meat.

Commissioner Huson will await the arrival of further information regarding the circumstances of the slaughter of the animal and he may examine some of the workmen in the Forst slaughter house before he makes a final disposition of the case. These charges became known to him only Monday morning and the investigation in the afternoon is in line with his policy to let no criticism of the department lie without immediate investigation.

A few nights ago exactly on the stroke of midnight the burglar alarm began to "burgle" on the front window of Henry Fuller's store. He and his wife were immediately aroused, knowing full well that the front of the store would be opened for business in a few seconds. Going to a front window on the second floor he fired his revolver, which brought two of his neighbors to the scene on the double quick. A hasty search of the premises both inside and outside revealed nothing, not even a footprint. The burglar had made a quick get away. Not long ago a similar attempt was made to break into the store but was unsuccessful.

Paris Inspired Millinery

Ever changing Paris shows today, through our exhibit, the most recent interpretations of the new modes in Spring millinery. After a brisk Easter rush, our showing has been made doubly inviting by the addition of fresh gems of fashion. Hats such as one will see nowhere else are here in brilliant profusion—a delight to the woman who values the opportunity to wear anything new in the dawn of its triumph.

Trimmed Hats, $5.00, $6.50, $7.50

What Paris has selected last in the way of trimmings; the newest art she has displayed in their manipulation and in the play of color, can all be seen in these newest fashion fancies. To allude to price in the same breath with so much beauty seems almost sordid.

We should be pleased to have you see our display.

Diamond Architecture

We are just evolving from the "Dark Age of Diamond Jewelry," when stones were set grossly in their plain holdings, with no attempt at architecture.

Today, however, Art is "creeping out from under," and everywhere we see efforts toward the Beautiful in Diamond Jewelry.

We have in our cases many rarely individual pieces, created into Lavallieres, Bar Pins, Breast Pins, Empire Rings and what not.

In some instances the settings are exclusively of Diamonds, in others Diamonds are contrasted with Rubies, Sapphires and Emeralds.
